CHITA THREATS, IF EXECUTED, MAY MEAN JAP WAR

Arrest Of Officers Sure To Cause Retaliations, Observers Say

SOVIET RUSSIA, FACTOR

Much Uncertainty As To What Moscow Proposes To Do

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, June 23.—The Japanese Major-General Koizumi, with a military mission, has arrived here to inspect the arms confiscated from the Russians, and also the armament of the Japanese troops. This is regarded as the first step of the Japanese War Department towards evacuation.

The Government continues in its refusal to allow Ataman Semenoff to proceed to Grodekovo, and suggests that he should make his temporary headquarters at Possiet, with the condition that he is not to interfere in political or military affairs.

Telegrams from many parts of the district indicate that the attitude of the peasants towards the local Government is one of watchful waiting, due to the fact that they suspect the possible concealment of a secret agreement with Ataman Semenoff.

Japanese Military Mission In Siberia

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, June 20.—Let the Government of the Far Eastern Republic arrest the Japanese military people in Siberia—but—!

This is the opinion given out in Japanese circles today with regard to the announcement that Chita is going to make war upon Japanese militarism. Chita may take what action she wants but the Japanese will not allow such action to pass without something more than passive protests.

It is admitted that it is within the power of the Far Eastern Republic to make the arrests that she is reported to be contemplating. Although there are no members of the Japanese army in Chita at the moment, the representative of the High Command at Vladivostok having been withdrawn some time ago, it is true that there are soldiers scattered throughout the pri-Amur and Maritime Provinces, and that nothing immediate could prevent the arrest and detention of these people. But it is stated that such an act would never be tolerated by Japan.

In Peking those competent to pass judgment upon Siberian matters are of the belief that retaliation by Japan in the event of the Government of the Far Eastern Republic ordering the arrest of the Japanese military, could mean but one thing, and that is war between Japan and the F.E.R. This belief falls in line with the reports that have been coming in the last few days to the effect that the important announcement that is to be given out by the Soviet Government witnin the next few days will deal with the union between the Far Eastern Republic and the Soviet Republic, in which case it may be that the former will defy Japan.

Still more mystery has been introduced into the situation by the report received from Harbin that Count Matsudaira is leaving Tokio for Chita, the official motive for the trip being investigation of the recent incidents in connection with Japanese residents in the territory of the Far Eastern Republic.

The very fact that Japanese circles are willing to talk upon these reports of the action contemplated by Chita would indicate that they have also received reports of a similar nature.

Chita Turns Down Soviet Troop Offer

Chita, June 19.—The Government of Far Eastern Republic received on the 9th inst., a note from the Chairman of the Siberian Revolutionary Committee, Mr. Smirnoff, proposing to introduce Soviet troops into the territory of the Far Eastern Republic for the suppression of White Guards.

The Soviet note: The White Guard bands of Ungern which invaded the territory of Russian Socialistic Federated Soviet Republic and are at present pursued by the Red Army are striving to withdraw to the territory of the Far Eastern Republic. A complete suppression of these counter-revolutionary bands, which

CHINA NOT READY

Changes Not Contemplated "Under Present Conditions"

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 20.—In the House of Commons today, Mr. Carlyon Bellairs urged that, "in pursuance of our historic mission of encouragement to China," the Government should raise the status of the British diplomatic representative in China to that of Ambassador, and negotiate with the five other Powers who have post offices in China for the withdrawal of these post-offices in recognition of China as a great Power.

The Under-Secrtary for Foreign Affairs (Mr. Cecil Harmsworth) replied that it was not proposed to raise the status of the British representative in the existing conditions in China, nor to negotiate for the withdrawal of the post-offices.

Mr. Bellairs suggested in a supplementary question that the pledge of the meeting of Allied Ministers in August, 1917, to do its best to see that China enjoyed a higher international status was being violated.

Mr. Cecil Harmsworth replied that he could not discuss the matter by question and answer.

Mr. Bellairs further suggested that the Government should notify China that it was willing to negotiate for the return of Weihaiwei to China.

Mr. Harmsworth replied that the Government did not at present propose to take any such action.

Jack London's Daughter To Wed Man Like Her Dad

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Joan London, daughter of the famous American adventurer-novelist, to Park Abbot of Oakland, California, brings out the interesting fact not only that Park Abbot is a former Shanghai man, but, also that in spite of his scant 21 years, Miss London's husband-to-be is a worthy son-in-law of the premier adventurer of the Pacific.

Abbot, himself, has lived the life that Jack London lived when, in his younger days, he shipped before the mast and engaged in the adventures always at hand in the South Sea in search of color. Abbot himself has shipped before the mast, he has suffered the hardships forced upon the ship's crew by the old-time masters of which novelists like to write. He has participated in near mutiny, has been shipwrecked, and all of the rest of it. And then, when he returned to America, he wrote a proper ending to his youthful adventures by winning the hand of the daughter of Jack London himself.

Abbot until a year ago was in the employ of the Robert Dollar company in this city. He was wharf manager for that concern. Prior to his arrival in Shanghai he had been a purser on a Dollar boat, the Quantice, which was washed ashore in a South Sea typhoon. He was well and popularly known here. He was a Shanghai resident for almost one and a half years. He left Shanghai in September on the Melville Dollar with his mother who had joined him here for a short stay.

Abbot's history, if it could be gotten in full, from the time of the beginning of his Jack London career of adventure, would be worthy of the best effort of a popular author. The book would rank as one of the year's best sellers.

STARTS AT EIGHTEEN

In 1919, when Park Abbot was but 18 years old, he set forth from his Oakland home in search of adventure on the Pacific. He little knew, when he shipped out as an able seaman on an American four-masted sailing vessel, that his voyage and the consequent adventures would bring him back to his neighboring county, to London's "Valley of the Moon," Sonoma County, to a bride, a daughter of the Pacific Coast's most noted adventurer.

Abbot, when but a short time out on his first voyage on the big schooner, found that life on a sailing vessel was not all romance and pleasurable adventure. His ship mates like himself were young, and in many instances inexperienced. The skipper was of the old school. Rations were sparse and poor, watches were arduous and long, and it was natural that discontent should develop. There was a near mutiny aboard ship, and on their arrival at Manila there were many desertions.

One of those apprehended by the Manila police was Abbot. He was haled into the court and prosecuted for breach of contract, mutiny and what not. It was only due to the fact that he was under age and not legally eligible to become party to a binding contract that he escaped. There might have been, however, a bit of sympathy felt by the magistrate for the boy, when the story of the skipper's conduct was told. Abbot was released.

It was while in Manila that Abbot first became connected with the Robert Dollar company. He met Mr. Ed. Howe, general manager, and impressed him, so that he was hired to go out to Java and the South Sea Islands as a purser on the chartered steamer Quantice, which, by the way, Mr. Howe himself was taking for an inspection of the Southern business field.

WRECKED IN TYPHOON

A few days out south from Manila, the Quantice encountered a South Sea typhoon, the kind that

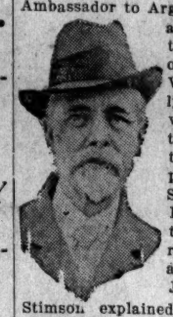
Demands His Star Spangled Banners "Straight"



FREDERICK Jessup Stimson, of Dedham, Mass., retiring Ambassador to Argentina, created a sensation in the main saloon of the SS. Vestris recently when he walked from the saloon while the band was playing "The Star Spangled Banner." When the Vestris reached her pier at Hoboken, N. J., Ambassador Stimson explained his action: "I walked out as a protest against playing the American National Anthem in a medley. This is against United States regulations."

RICE DEALERS STANDING FIRM ON STRIKETHREAT

Declare They Will Shut Shops July 1 Unless Council Reconsiders

Unless the Shanghai Municipal Council reconsiders its decision to license the rice shops in the International Settlement the rice shops in this district will strike on July 1, the day of the enforcement of the bye-law and those in Nantao and Chapei will follow suit on July 4.

This was the decision reached at the meeting of the rice guild in Nantao yesterday.

Following the meeting, Mr. Yi Kung-yu, one of the directors of the guild, called on the Magistrate of the city, Mr. Shen Pao-chang, and reported to him the decision of the guild.

According to Mr. Yi's report, the rice merchants in the settlement consider the licensing of their shops an unwarranted restriction and an insult to their reputations, because the Council has ranked them in the same class of business as brothel keepers and the proprietors of wine shops. They have not been stocking any new supplies since July 20 in anticipation of the strike on July 1.

As the rice shops in Chinese territory are engaged in the same trade, they must show their sympathy and are expected to join in the strike three days after the Settlement dealers quit business.

The Magistrate was asked to communicate with the Foreign Commissioner to ask the Council once more to reconsider its decision.

Many of the local rice shops have sold out their entire stocks and are buying only enough each day to supply the daily demand. In consequence the arrival of rice boats from the producing centers has been greatly affected. Only 17 boats arrived on Wednesday, whereas the normal entry for this time of year runs over fifty. Rice dealers up-country are much exercised over conditions here, it is reported, and have indicated that they will not send much of their stock here until the present question is settled.

The business of hongs and rice threshing mills in Nantao and Chapei has been seriously affected and it is stated that the shop men have petitioned the authorities in Frenchtown and in Chinese territory to afford them protection in the event of the threatened strike taking place on July 1.

Attorney Fleming Returning On 'Asia'

A telegram received yesterday by the law firm of Fleming, Davies and Bryan advises that Mr. W. S. Mr. Fleming will resume his practice of law with the firm which he heads.

Churchmen Urge Armament Recess

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, June 22.—President Harding has received a delegation of the Church Peace Union, which presented a petition, signed by 22,000 clergymen of all denominations, urging him to initiate steps as early as possible with a view to the convocation of an international conference on the limitation of armaments.

KING OPENS NORTH IRISH PARLIAMENT AT BELFAST

Pleads For Irish Unity Under Plan Of Native Choice

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 22.—The King, accompanied by the Queen, today performed the ceremony of opening the North Irish Parliament at the City Hall, Belfast. The event was marked by a wonderful and spontaneous outburst of loyalty, a wealth of pageantry and the observance of impressive and time-honored ceremonial.

The arrival of the royal yacht, escorted by two battleships, two light cruisers and nine destroyers, with aeroplanes droning overhead, was greeted by an enormous crowd with deafening cheers. This was the beginning of an immense popular welcome, the enthusiasm of which was unbroken throughout their Majesties' stay.

The arrival of their Majesties was announced with a flourish of trumpets, and on entering the hall they were attended by the royal and vice-regal households, all in glittering state dress, and preceded by the Viceroy, carrying the Sword of State. There was solemn silence as the King and Queen seated themselves on their thrones.

The King then delivered his opening speech. He emphasised that the whole of the English-speaking world earnestly desired a satisfactory solution of the Irish problem. No wish was nearer to his heart than that every Irishman should work in loyal co-operation with the free communities on which the Empire was based. The eyes of the whole Empire were on Ireland—an Empire in which many races and nations had come together, despite their ancient feuds, and in which new nations had been born within the lifetime of the youngest of those there present.

He trusted that Southern Ireland would shortly furnish a parallel to what was passing in that hall, and hoped that that historic gathering would be a prelude to a day in which the Irish—under one or two Parliaments, as they themselves should decide—would work together in common love for Ireland. He appealed to all Irishmen to forgive and forget, and to join in making for their beloved land a new era of peace, contentment and good-will.

New York, June 22.—Admiral Sims, who was recently recalled from England on account of a speech alleged to have been injudicious, has arrived here. The wharf was packed with policemen, over a thousand being detailed for duty, but no untoward incident occurred. The Admiral motored direct to the station, en route to Washington.

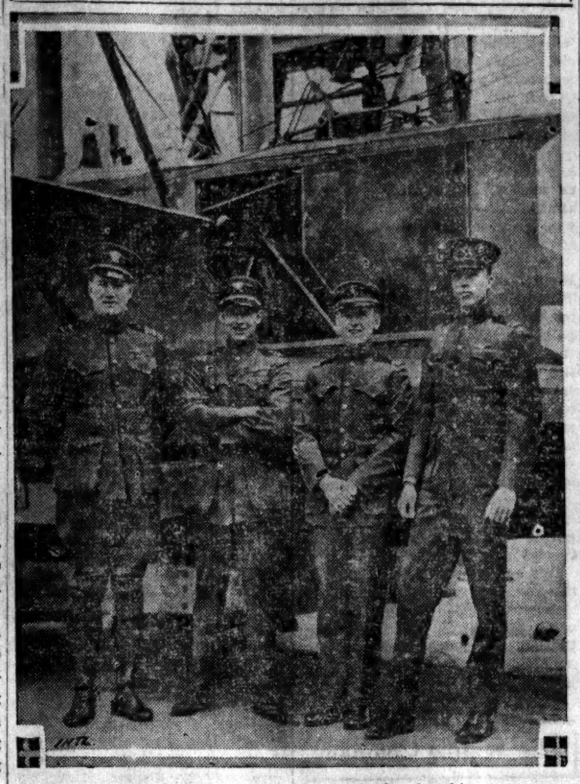
Denver, June 22.—Irish sympathisers here were overwhelmingly defeated when they asked the Federation of Labor Convention to reverse the ruling of Mr. Samuel Gompers, which prevented the reconsideration of the resolution by which they sought to boycott British goods.

Looters Inflicted $42,000,000 Loss

(Staff Correspondence)

Hankow, June 20.—The damages done on properties by the recent mutiny at Ichang are estimated at $12,000,000, while those at Wuchang after the mutiny on June 8 totalled about $30,000,000. At Ichang Japanese merchants are reported to have suffered most among foreign interests. Among Chinese sufferers there, shops of the piece goods and satins guild sustained an average loss of $15,000 each. During the Wuchang mutiny, the Hupeh Provincial Government Bank and the Wuchang Government Mint suffered most, the figure being officially estimated as over $2,000,000. Chinese jewelry shops, weaving factories, and other industrial plants also suffered huge losses.

U.S. Aviators Who Sent Former German U-Boat To Bottom



(U. S. Naval Radio)

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Members of a U.S. naval bombing crew made short work of a former German submarine in practice tests at Hampton Roads today. The tests revealed the vulnerability of the U-boats when attacked from above. The members of the bombing crew were Lieut. Commander Strong, and Lieuts. David A. Musk, J. H. Sheehan and M. F. Eddy.

The men mentioned in the above despatch are shown in the photograph, and are as named, reading from left to right.

Earthquake Pictures, To Be Shown Here, Truly Amazing

BY ELSIE McCORMICK

Mountains that moved in the night, landslides that ended like waterfalls, crevasses that swallowed houses and camel trains, and villages that were swept away under a rising sea of loose earth were a few of the subsidiary occurrences that made the earthquake in Kansu one of the most appalling catastrophes in history.

Though the tremendous shaking-up took place last December, the story is only now beginning spread beyond the narrow defiles which guard the entrance to Kansu Province. It is perhaps the most poorly advertised calamity that has occurred in modern times. Though Kansu is within telegraphic reach of the rest of the world, the details of the disaster have never come over the wires. The native population was too stunned and the scanty number of foreign residents too busy in relief work to give any description of the dancing mountains and vanishing valleys.

Mr. Josef W. Hall, who visited the earthquake area under the auspices of the Internationl Famine Relief Committee, has brought back one of the first accounts of the devastated country and the strange things that happen when the earth turns itself into a contortionist.

The area of complete destruction, in which not one stone rests upon another, has dimensions of one hundred by three hundred miles, and contains ten large cities besides numerous villages. It is in the heart of the so-called loess country, where the soil is a mixture of clay and powdered quartz. A narrower region was comprised in the landside district, where the loose earth cascaded down the valleys and buried every object in its path.

STRANGE TALES

Tales as strange as any that Roman historians have told of Pompeii are recounted by visitors to the devastated country. As three-fifths of the dead are Mohammedan, the followers of the Chinese sects claim that the earthquake was a visitation from Heaven against the disciples of the Prophet. Somehow the Mohammedans have failed to deny this accusation with their usual vigor, and have suddenly become surprisingly humble.

One of the most dramatic episodes of the disaster was the burial of Ma the Benevolent, a famous Moslem fanatic, and three hundred of his cohorts just as they had met in conclave to proclaim a Holy War. The cave in which they had gathered was sealed by a terrific avalanche, while the group knelt on their prayer mats. By some miracle the watchman at the entrance of the cave escaped with his life, but the others were buried so deeply that despite months of digging over a area of a mile, the Moslems have failed to recover the bodies of their leaders.

In another district, Mr. Hall and his party found that a whole mountain topped by a temple had slid into a valley. A little beyond, they found that a road bordered by poplar trees had ridden the crest of a slide for three quarters of a mile, without apparent damage to the trees or even to the birds' nests in their branches. One astonished missionary looked out his window in the morning to find that a high hill had moved on to the compound, stopping its line of march within a few feet of his house.

ONLY ONE COUPLE LEFT

In another village Mr. Hall discovered that the only people left alive was a couple over seventy years old. They were saved from death only by the fact that their relatives, displaying a strange lack of filial piety, had sent them to live in a ramshackle house on the outskirts of the village at some distance from the point where an avalanche buried the family home. The death of their descendants was taken as evidence by survivors in the neighborhood that Heaven had punished their neglect of filial duty.

In the city of Chingning, the party found the magistrate living in a canvas tent on the ground of his demolished yamen. In the same city two women missionaries were dwelling in a hovel with earthern floor and a matshed roof that would be scorned by well-bred livestock. Though they had been offered better quarters, the mission workers had refused to accept them because, they said, they wanted to share the hardships of their people.

The most appalling sight of all was the Valley of the Dead, where seven great slides crashed into a gap in the hills three miles long, killing every living thing in the area except three men and two dogs. The survivors were carried across the valley on the crest of the avalanche, caught in the cross-current of two other slides, whirled in a gigantic vortex, and catapaulted through space to the slope of another hill. With them went house, orchard, and threshing floor, and the farmer has since placidly begun to till the new location to which he was so unceremoniously taken.

OUTLAYS FOR COLONIES CUT BECAUSE OF EAST BURDEN

Churchill Tells Premiers Why Budgets Were Pruned

CURZON SPEAKS

Foreign Affairs Chief Makes Long Speech On Policy

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 22.—At today's meeting of the Imperial Conference, Lord Curzon (Secretary for Foreign Affairs) delivered a long statement on general foreign policy, after which Mr. Winston Churchill (Secretary for the Colonies) spoke with regard to Mesopotamia and Egypt supplementing his statement in the House of Commons last week.

Yesterday Mr. Churchill addressed the Conference on the subject of the Crown Colonies and Dependencies. He dwelt on the post-war depression which was affecting them as compared with the prosperity they experienced during the war.

"We have been approached with pressure to enforce schemes for the compulsory limitation of output, but have been unable to accept such schemes," he said. "We must in no way lose heart about our splendid tropical possessions, but endeavor to secure them credit and money to provide them with technical apparatus and to develop their resources, especially now that American exchange was largely against us."

This was a matter, he contended, which should to a greater extent engage the sympathies and interest of the self-governing Dominions.

LAUDS CANADA

In this connection, Mr. Churchill paid a tribute to the action of Canada in 1920, in concluding a trade agreement with the West Indies, as a remarkable instance of Imperial preference, and for promoting the unity of the Empire through the development of communications, besides making Canada economically a far more complete entity.

Mr. Churchill added: "We have continued slowly to develop Imperial communications, though we have very little money. The great expense in Palestine and Mesopotamia has imposed such burdens that everything as regards the Crown Colonies has had to be very severely pruned."

Referring to the Federated Malay States, the Colonial Secretary outlined the history of their railways and their Siamese connections. The States, he said, formed a very important feature of our administration. He recalled that the gift of the battleship Malaya had come just in the nick of time for it to be ready. He declared that, had our dreams of a great sea battle materialised, these ships of the Queen Elizabeth type would have played a very decisive part in turning the head of the enemy's line. In so many other ways had the Federated Malay States voluntarily come to our aid, he said, that they had given us more assistance than any other part of our colonial empire had been able to do. They were now hard hit on account of the present prices of tin and rubber. These conditions, however, were only temporary. The modern world could not get on without these commodities.

SINGAPORE'S STATUS

The importance of Singapore was a matter which the Conference would have brought before them on other days when they discussed Pacific strategy generally, and it would certainly bulk increasingly largely in all their minds as years went by.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, June 23.—Mr. Lloyd George's speech at the conference of Imperial Prime Ministers is most favorably commented on in this morning's papers, the Japanese press attesting to the supreme importance which Great Britain attaches to her relations with Japan and America.

The papers make a special feature of the Prime Minister's emphasis of the sincerity and good faith of Japan's friendship in past years and of his praise for the services she rendered during the war, the latter being regarded as indirectly endorsing the necessity for prolonging the alliance and of restricting armaments, in the realisation of which an Anglo-Japanese entente would be a most powerful factor.

Japanese Envoy To London Pleased By Pact Situation

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 22.—Baron Hayashi, Japanese Ambassador to the Court of St. James, interviewed by Reuter today, declared that he was gratified at the views expressed by the Imperial Conference on the Anglo-Japanese Alliance. It should be obvious, he said, that no Japanese Government could regard the Alliance as in any way envisaging strife with America, friendship with which was an absolute necessity for Japan. Moreover, he affirmed, Japan wished China to be on terms of equality with other Powers. He stated in conclusion that he entirely agreed with General Smuts's remarks on disarmament.

France Willing To Join Pacific Pact

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 22.—The Temps says that France is only a spectator as regards the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, but that she would willingly associate herself with a conference of Powers interested in the Pacific. The journal expresses the opinion that the substitution of a general entente for a single alliance would raise an infinitely broader wall against the dangers of war.

Washington, June 22.—The State Department has formally denied the report that it has been kept cognisant of the progress of the negotiations for a renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, and has specifically denied that the department has received assurances that "in the event of a renewal of the Treaty, every precaution will be taken to guard against the inclusion of anything inimical to American rights."

London, June 22.—In the House of Commons today, replying to a question as to whether steps had been taken to ascertain the opinion of British traders in China as regards renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Treaty, the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs (Mr. Cecil Harmsworth) declared that the Government were aware of the views generally held by the British community in China.

Melbourne, June 22.—The Australian Labor Congress has passed a resolution of protest against renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Treaty.

Hunan Chambers Protest Renewal Of Anglo-Jap Pact

(Staff Correspondence)

Hankow, June 20.—Practically all organisations representative of Chinese interests in Hunan province are now arrayed in full force against the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance. A cablegram to this sense was recently sent to the British government, bearing the signatures of the following eight organisations at Changsha: Hunan Provincial Educational Association, Hunan Teachers Union, Hunan Provincial Associated Chamber of Commerce, Standing Committee on Western Hunan Affairs, Hunan Provincial Labor Union, Hunan Barristers Association, Provincial Agricultural Society and Hunan Self-Government Promotion Society.

The text of the cablegram follows:

To the British Cabinet:

It is reported that your honored government is about to renew the Alliance with Japan for the purpose, it is alleged, of preserving a temporary peace in the Far East. We venture to state that this virtually amounts to a substantial support for Japan to strengthen her supremacy in Eastern Asia, and therefore enables Japan to effect her imperialistic and economic conquest.

Therefore, we feel that your government, while striving to renew this that it may be the bulwark of peace in Eastern Asia, will soon find the alliance a stepping-stone to disastrous warfare on the Pacific. We hope you will discontinue the pact that a Pacific war may not arise. However, in case you find it profitable and advisable to renew the alliance, we would request you not to include in the pact any clauses touching upon the sovereignty of China.

The future of this Republic depends very much upon this problem. We are (signatures follow)

A similar cablegram was sent to the governments of the United States, Canada and Australia.

Ad Club Plans Elaborate Program At Annual Outing

Dancing to the music of Harry Kerley's orchestra will feature the outing of the Ad. Club on Sunday when the members and their friends assemble at the home of Mr. Kan Chiu-nam on Sinza Road for their afternoon frolic.

Appropriate decorations have been obtained for the occasion and the spacious lawns will present a gay scene when the guests assemble for the entertainment. A new feature has been added to the program which will make it a typical advertising affair when each guest present will receive a novelty of an advertising nature which is issued by some commercial house represented in the membership of the Club.

It is planned to present to each one present as he is leaving a souvenir such as a deck of playing cards, an ash tray, book mark, key chain or such other novelty as may be contributed by one or another of the firms in Shanghai who make a practice of novelty advertising.

Mr. Kan Chiu-nam, the General Manager of the Nanyang Brothers Tobacco Co., who is acting as host for the afternoon, has spared no pains to insure the members of the Ad. Club a good time and in the event of inclement weather, such as Shanghai has experienced of late, he has erected a large mat shed big enough to accommodate the party for refreshments and even the outdoor games and sports which are on the program.

Ladies will be much in evidence both in the dancing and in the games which will follow the special entertainers.

We are requested to remind all the members that applications for tickets will close tonight at the office of Mr. J. A. Dissmeyer, British American Tobacco Co. Admittance to the grounds will be by ticket only.

The Waring Company

The pleasure which the Shanghai theater-goers have felt on the return of the Waring Company was augmented in the case of those who formed the appreciative audience which turned out to enjoy "Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace."

Oscar Wilde's dialogue is always good when it is allowed to be so, but occasionally it suffers in the rendering.

The Cast last night made no mistakes in this line, Miss May Hallatt interpreting the author very artistically, so that it was a delight to listen to her.

Mr. Charles Quartermaine was excellent, but, is it that he is too fluent, or does Shanghai dull one's hearing? Sometimes he went so fast that one lost a sentence here and there.

The cast generally was more than adequate and certainly this play shows the company at its best.

Chefoo Observes Foundation Day

(China Press Correspondence)

Chefoo, June 18.—The China Inland Mission Schools celebrated their Foundation Day yesterday when there was the usual holiday with its program of events. The anniversary fell on the 16th inst., but as there had been a case of scarlet fever in the Boys' Department a week before, the celebrations were postponed for a couple of days. On Thursday afternoon there were the three boat Races. The first was between two crews of Junior boys and a fine race resulted in the crew in the "Hero" getting past the winning flag first.

The second of the three races was between the Girls. Beautifully attired in "middies" the girls commenced to pull well together from the moment that the gun had been fired. The two boats were neck to neck for most of the distance, but in the last few yards the "Leander" crew put on a fine spurt and went ahead. The Time Keeper announced that the time taken to cover the course had been 3 mins. 12 secs, this being about 5 secs longer than the time taken by the Junior Boys to do the same course.

The race between the Senior Boys was hotly contested and the event was very exciting. Both crews settled down from the first and there was some fine pulling. Up till half way there was nothing to choose between the crews but then "Leander" went a little in front. "Hero" however, made a big effort and appeared to be pulling up, but "Leander" was not done and urged on by its supporters it put forth another big effort with the result that it finished with a considerable lead.

There was a large number of spectators both on the sea in numerous small boats and on the shore.

MANY ARRIVALS ON GOLDEN STATE; NILE IN TODAY

Mails Being Dispatched On Tenyo Maru And On Empress Of Russia

Bringing 56 passengers for Shanghai the steamer Golden State of the Pacific Mail docked here at the China Merchants Lower wharf shortly after noon yesterday. The Golden State, which is one of the new shipping board passenger liners allocated to the Pacific Mail, is making her second voyage from America to the Far East.

Among those arriving are Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ladow and Master Ladow. Mr. Ladow, who is manager of the Carlton Cafe and one of Shanghai's 'oldtimers,' left in April to visit the United States for the first time in thirty years. Others in the incoming list are Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Loehr and Miss M. L. Loehr and Mr. and Mrs. Barnes Moss. Mr. Moss is one of the active factors working for the project to erect at Shanghai a powerful federal wireless plant and his trip to America, it is understood, was taken in connection with this project.

The Golden State will be dispatched for Manila and Hongkong at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Following the Golden State the steamer Nile of the China Mail will arrive from San Francisco by way of Honolulu early today. In addition to about 550 bags of mail that arrived in the Golden State, the Nile has 192 bags and is bringing 23 cabin and 26 second class passengers for Shanghai.

Mail for Honolulu is being dispatched today on the Tenyo Maru of the T.K.K., sailing this afternoon, and a fast mail is to go out tomorrow on the C.P.O.S. steamer Empress of Russia. The Empress of Russia is due off Woosung from Hongkong at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and the tender with outbound passengers will be dispatched to the ship at 5:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

figures in many novelists' stories. And the Quantice failed to weather it, because of insufficient propeller strength and speed, and was blown off the safe and proper course, and cast on a rock-bound coast off a little unknown tropical island.

The preparations for rescue work were made in a driving typhoon. A line was shot to the shore and many were sent over it to safety but, due to the pitching of the vessel, eight men were lost, hurled high in the air by the lurching ship, as though shot from a bow, and drowned in the rough sea when they fell. When the Quantice jarred loose, and was swept on again toward the land, Abbot and Howe, at the moment of striking leaped for life and landed safely as their steamer went to pieces.

Abbot headed a relief party for the stranded party into the interior, while Howe commanded the beach camp. A quantity of supplies was brought to the shore and a number of canoes were obtained from the natives. When weather and sea permitted the party paddled to a neighboring island occupied by white men, and later were picked up by a passing steamer and returned to Manila. It was then that Abbot came to Shanghai.

Miss Joan London is now a senior in the University of California. She graduates next May. She is twenty years of age, a dark, red cheeked daughter of California.

Quake Pictures Truly Amazing

fusion that followed the earthquake, the landlord completely forgot his two guests, it was not until several days later that he remembered them, and when, after considerable digging, their room was brought to light, both men were found alive. Stupified by the shock, they knew nothing of what had happened and imagined that they had slept through an ordinary night.

One of the districts that has suffered most is the tableland to the north known as the bunchgrass country which supplies the camel crop for practically all of Asia. The soil is an unyielding alkali which cracked appallingly and which had no loess cushion to mitigate the force of the shock. In one town with a normal population of several hundred, the investigators found only twenty or thirty survivors and these were so dazed by the disaster that three months after its occurrence the dead were still lying unburied in the streets.

The loss of nearly two hundred thousand lives and the total destruction of hundreds of towns and cities calls for relief work on a staggering scale. Seven thousand men are now employed in releasing dammed up streams and thus preventing disastrous overflows. Fortunately there is no orphan problem, as children in the devastated districts were so much in demand that they were promptly adopted by the survivors. In Kansu, as in most pioneer countries, men are so much in the majority that women are highly valued. The usual price for a wife ranges from one hundred to three hundred taels, and as a result, girl babies are adopted as eagerly as the boys.

Pictures of the catastrophe will be shown next Tuesday evening at the Olympic Theater when Mr. Hall lectures on his visit to the suffering province. The proceeds will be used for relief work in the province, to be administered by the International Committee for Foreign Relief.

Oil Company Suit Mentioned In Court

Mention was made in the British Supreme Court yesterday of the action brought by the Texas Oil Company against the North China Trading Company (G. Chalmers and E. B. Kidby).

The case came before Judge Skinner Turner and Mr. E. J. Schuhl appeared for plaintiffs while Mr. Reader Harris appeared for the defendants.

The claim is for $1,810.60 for goods sold and delivered. It is alleged that compradore orders tendered by the defendants were dishonored. Mr. Harris said it had been agreed that judgment should be entered against the company and Mr. Chalmers for the amount claimed and costs. It was further agreed that there should be stay of execution for three months and that the claim against Mr. Kidby should not be prejudiced.

WAR OFFICIALLY PROCLAIMED BY CANTON GENERAL

Kwangtung Forces Advancing Close To Kwangsi Capital

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, June 22.—General Chen Chiung-ming has issued a proclamation, notifying that a state of war exists between Kwangtung and Kwangsi.

General Ngai Bong-ping has ordered all available land and naval forces to attack Wuchow. Severe fighting is reported to have occurred at Kaisou, in the neighbourhood of Wuchow.

Canton, June 22.—It is semi-officially announced that the Kwangtung forces have occupied Kafong and Tayenshan, and are advancing towards Kwangping close to Wuchow. Aeroplanes have flown over Wuchow, distributing pamphlets, informing the people that the Kwangtung troops are only fighting against the Kwangsi militarists, and that civilians will be protected.

Peking, June 21.—General Ho En-pu, Vice-Minister of War, who was Chief of Staff under the late General Li Shun at Nanking, has left Peking for Nanking on a mission to investigate conditions in Kiangsu and the attitude of the province towards the independence movement in Chekiang.

Hongkong, June 23.—It is reported that General Li Li'eh-chun is advancing against Kwangsi from Hunan.

Sikh Trooper Dies, Victim Of Bullet Of Chinese Gunman

Policeman Succumbs To Wound Inflicted After New World Fight

The Sikh trooper who was shot by a Chinese on Thibet Road a week ago, after the latter had also shot a Chinese watchman in the New World amusement resort, died in hospital Wednesday night.

Five men have been arrested in connection with the fight at the New World, but the man who used the pistol has not yet been taken into custody, though his identity is known. The five now under arrest come up for trial in the Mixed Court tomorrow.

An inquest over the body of the dead trooper, who was attached to Louza station, was begun by the British Magistrate yesterday and was adjourned after evidence of identification had been given.

VIL STRIFE IN OUTH CAUSED BY RIVAL WARLORDS

ople Want Peace, But Militarists Bent On Rule Or Ruin Policy

(Staff Correspondence)

Canton, June 17.—While angsi is withdrawing a part her forces from the Liang o) Kwang borders, the angtung Government is rush- troops to the frontier dis- cts. Kwangsi is now being reatened from the north-west Kweichow.

n Lingsman, the two opposing ces are nearer to each other n at any other place, as there ut a river between them. In mchow and Linchow, where ious trouble is expected and battle ground will likely be, ng forces of Cantonese troops being stationed. The port o chow is being practically ckaded by the Cantonese, and steamers and junks attempt to reach that Kwangsi port subject to search for con band of war; foreign vessels inspected just the same, in te of a British protest. The Tai Ming, carrying the Brit- flag, was searched on June 1 r Samshui, in spite of stron- ection from the captain.

Many would ask why one vince should declare wai inst another. An impartial wer will be that there is no in the real sense between the o provinces, as the people ar- st friendly, and the Cantonese e always been controlling the nomic interests of the angsi-ites.

GEN. LU MISLED

General Lu Yung-ting, the minal warlord and head of the angsi militarists making wa inst Kwangtung, would be lled with a status similar t t at the beginning of the con t when he was undispute der with headquarters in Wu ng, Kwangsi. His followers e misled him and brought him believe that he will have the pport of General Chang Tso of Mukden, Tsao Kun o otingfu, and Wang Chan-yuan Wuchang, now known as th per-tuchuns," in case he wins trol over the South-west ncipally Kwangtung.

General Chen Pin-chun, mer Tuchun in Kwangtung nself a Kwangsi-ite, is now the ef lieutenant of Lu in fighting angsi, while many other mer Kwangtung officials ntonese as well as non-Canton , are supporting the move nt against Dr. Sun Yat-sen and e Kuomintang Political Party d trying to arouse brigandage Kwangtung in order to regain litical and military power it wangtung and other parts of e South-west.

Dr. Sun Yat-sen is repeating long prepared program to ke China a real republic. This e his followers begin at vangtung, and his work is ng divided into two divisions. neral Chen Chiung-ming lead the part to make Kwangtung model province, with Mr. Fo n, Sun Yat-sen, Junior, in gurating the commission form city government in Canton, so to provide an example for al government in other parts the province.

SUN'S OBSTACLES

Dr. Sun and his party believe ey cannot expand territorially politically without removing e obstacles before them, and as vangsi militarism under Lu ng-ting is the nearest danger. me should be exterminated cording to the Kuomintang heme.

Other minor leaders of the so- led Constitutionalist Move- nt, such as the military leaders Yunnan, Kweichow, Hunan, d also in Kwangsi have hesitat- at the beginning to side whole- artedly with Dr. Sun, as his heme will mean the end of litarism just the same whether der the cloak of law defending constitutionalism. Many naval d military leaders who were th the Military Government at e beginning of the law-defend- movement some four years o are now in fact out of the rty, and whether they will oin the present Government der Dr. Sun Yat-sen or not ll naturally be decided by the litary and political fortune of s Southern leader.

The peoples of Kwangtung and wangsi are not at all at war, d their territory is being utilis- by different political parties o wish to try their theories of vernment or struggle for wer.

The present inter-provincial ruggle will be much influenced by events outside the South-west. The disintegration of Peking, the independent movement of the Yangtze Provinces, the indifference of Shansi, Hunan, and Fukien towards the present Liang Kwang conflict; all these will mean a blow to Kwangsi, and her militarists' aim to reenter Canton cannot be realised.

The expenses of upkeeping a large army in Kwangtung for struggle against Kwangsi are forcing the Cantonese to now take the offensive in the operations, as their soldiers have to enter Kwangsi early in order to make the people there pay a part of the military expenditure. Moreover, the ability of Dr. Sun Yat-sen and his party to remain longer in Canton depends on the ousting of Lu Yung-ting from Kwangsi.

First Chinese Girl Gets B. A. In Canton

(China Press Correspondence)

Canton, June 17.—The Canton Christian College, an American mission institution, conferred degrees on graduates for the third time, June 17, when three candidates were given the degree of Bachelor of Arts, one being Miss Leung Tsau-ming, believed to be the first Chinese girl to receive a bachelor's degree from a mission school in China.

The Kwangtung Educational Association will hold a meeting soon to pass resolutions in sympathy with the teachers in Peking for better treatment of teachers by the Government, also protesting against the attack on students and teachers by guards of the government in Peking.

Court Authorises Lane, Crawford Co. To Register Tranfer

Authorisation was given yesterday in the British Supreme Court by Judge Skinner Turner to Messrs. Lane, Crawford and Company to register a transfer of property from Mr. William Henry Griffiths to Lane, Crawford and Company when it was set forth in an affidavit that the formality had been overlooked until after the time fixed by statute for registering the property transfer had expired.

The property in question is described as B. C. Lot No. 925. At the time it was sold to Lane, Crawford and Company, on September 15, 1920, it was subject to a mortgage in the sum of Tls. 30,000 held by the Yokohama Specie Bank and dated July 1, 1918. An indebtedness on the mortgage of Tls. 20,000 that existed at the time of the transfer, in which the consideration named was Tls. 20,000, was assumed by Lane, Crawford and Company. The affadavit presented to the court by Mr. T. Wing, representing the company, was given by Mr. R. J. Bowerman, Secretary to Lane, Crawford and Company.

Upon the authorisation given by the Court the transfer and the mortgage will be registered.

Coal Deadlock Still Unbroken

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 22.—After strong partisan speeches at the Labor Party Conference at Brighton, the delegates overwhelmingly rejected a proposal to accept affiliation with the Communist Party.

London, June 22.—The position on the coalfields today is unchanged. Those miners who are anxious to return are on the whole obeying the fervent appeals from mass meetings to delay resumption. It is estimated that only a thousand are working in all parts of the country. The military in a number of districts are protecting the safety men in charge of the pumps.

It is understood that several of the largest trade-unions have already told the miners that they are unwilling to strike at present.

are causing as much harm to Far Eastern Republic as to Soviet Russia, demands the crossing of the frontier of Far Eastern Republic by the Red Army in order to liquidate, by united co-operation with the forces of People's Revolutionary Army, the White Guard bands. The Siberian Revolutionary Committee begs to be informed whether there are objections to the proposed movement of the Red army into the territory of Far Eastern Republic.

(Signed) Smirnoff, Chairman of Siberian Revolutionary Committee.

Chita's reply: The Government of Far Eastern Republic possesses a sufficiently strong armed force to cope with the situation. The sympathy and confidence of the masses of people assure the Government of the young republic that the people of the Far East will manage to defend their lawful rights and to put an end to the assaults of separate bands as well as to the uninvited armed intervention into their affairs.

Being fully aware that the Red Army desiring to cross the border of the Far Eastern Republic is moved by purely friendly feelings and while completely sharing the view of the Siberian Revolutionary Committee in regard to the necessity of liquidating the bands of Ungern, the Government of the Far Eastern Republic does not consider it possible to agree to let the Red army cross the territory of Far Eastern Republic.

We hope that acting side by side on their respective territories, the two armies may achieve the desired ends by co-ordination of activities of the commanders on the frontiers.

Peking, June 20.—Foreigners are not wanted in Vladivostok at present nor are they wanted in the Maritime province, according to message reaching Peking. Those foreigners who are in special disfavor are those who might work and thus take employment from the Russians. Unemployment is becoming serious there, it is said and all foreigners who enter the boundaries of the Province must now deposit not less than 200 gold roubles. If they do not transgress and do not add to the unemployment situation, the money will be returned.

GREEKS MAY BE ASKED BY ALLIES TO LEAVE ASIA

Hint To Be Conveyed By Mission Now In Athens

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 22.—Reuter's Agency learns that the British, French and Italian Ministers at Athens on Monday informed the Greek Government of the readiness of the Allies to take into their own hands the question of effecting a settlement of the Graeco-Turkish war.

General Harington has, by agreement with France, been appointed Commandant of the Allied forces at Constantinople. No communication has yet been made to Turkey.

It is pointed out that the situation at present is very different from what it was at the time of the last London Conference on the Near East, when only enquiry was proposed. The view now taken by the French Government is that the Greeks may have to leave Asia, and a new arrangement is now possible as regards a part of Thrace. The decisions reached in Paris last week differ in these respects very materially from the decisions of the London Conference.

It is evident that the Greeks are not so powerful as they were three months ago, and it is hoped that they will understand the need of peace, and how essential it is for Greece to have the good-will of the Allies.

'Electolite'

BRITAIN'S LATEST LIGHT AND POWER PLANT

ELECTOLITE runs on Paraffin.
Patent Vaporiser affords excellent fuel economy.
Detachable Cylinder Head affords maximum accessibility.
Water-cooling is superior to air-cooling, particularly in hot climates.
4-Stroke Engine, NOT 2-Stroke.
1500 Watts continuous capacity, which is twice the output of many plants costing nearly as much.
ELECTOLITE—50 volts when lighting, 70 volts when charging. Beware of 30-volt plant, for which accessories such as lamps or domestic appliances are often difficult or impossible to obtain.
Engine stops automatically if lubricating oil is not replenished when indicated.
Mechanically governed and develops 3 h.p. at pulley.
Small electric motors can be run distant from the generator.
A touch of a switch and the Plant starts without cranking. It stops automatically when batteries are completely charged.
The meter indicates when recharging becomes necessary.
ELECTOLITE is really fool-proof.

Why bother with the filling and cleaning of evil and dangerous oil lamps, when the same oil used in ELECTOLITE enables you to switch on up-to-date electric lamps that require no attention and to use household appliances that save time and labour?

Write to-day for further information, give approximate number of lights required, and machines to be used, if any, and our Engineers will give the necessary advice regarding your installation for ELECTOLITE Electric Service.

SAY TUCHUN LU IS BUT THE TOOL OF ANFU CLIQUE

Peking Factions Concentrate On Campaign Against Chekiang Leader

"Chekiang for the Chekiangites. Not a camouflaged self-government promoted by Anfuites."

This constitutes the slogan of prominent native sons of Chekiang, including Sun Pao-chi and Chien Nung-hsun, two former premiers.

While Tuchun Lu Yung-hsiang is persisting in his anti-government propoganda to win popular favor, the concensus of opinion is that he has absolutely lost his power and is today but the tool of many Anfuites in Hangchow, headed by Fan Chu, Little Hsu's lieutenant.

Leading Chekiang residents in Peking have jointly sent a telegram to Lu, sarcastically commenting that while the Chekiang people are anxious to have self-government, they wish to have a real democratic provincial administration and not a military dictatorship.

In compliance with the request of Chin Yung-peng, the powerless premier of Peking, Chang Tso-lin, the Fengtien warlord, is preparing for a wordy battle against Lu. Chang has invited Tsao Kun, Tuchun of Chihli, to join him in a manifesto to scotch the wily ambitions of Lu Yung-hsiang.

Chin Yun-peng has also despatched Ho En-po, Vice-minister of War and an uncle of Ho Feng-lin, the local Defense Commissioner, to devise means with Tuchun Chi Shih-yuan of Kiangsu to check the anti-government movements of Lu.

Meanwhile, there is also trouble in the Kiangsu camp. A dispute has taken place between the Civil Governor and the Military Governor. Wang Hu has suddenly tendered his resignation, while Chi Shih-yuan has received reports of serious disturbances in his province caused by brigands and Anfuites.

Balchin, S. Wyles, J. Crowley, F. J. Carnell, W. H. Pike, M. Harrison, E. J. Ling, R. Ward and O. B. Perkins.

The assistant warders promoted to be warders are: G. H. Craik, W. R. Chisholm, A. E. Worwood and P. A. Emery.

Constable A. L. Crompton is transferred to the jail staff with the rank of warder with seniority over three of the warders created in the orders. Emery takes seniority from October 1.

Three of the constables who have been made sergeants in the detective force are H. Robertson, J. Douglas and A. E. Balchin. Robertson figured prominently in the Pakoi Road murder case and did excellent work.

All of the newly promoted men have been in the service for some time and were recently put through very thorough examinations as to their fitness for promotion. They passed the tests with honors.

ANOTHER ARMED ROBBERY

Louza district had its usual armed robbery last night, the third in three nights, when four men entered a pawnshop at 508 Avenue Edward VII, held up the inmates of the place and secured money and valuables to a total of about $100. One of the men exhibited a pistol. The record reads practically the same as for the robbery Wednesday night and it is thought that it was committed by the same gang.

SHANGHAI MUST WIN NEXT TWO GAMES TO GRAB THE WHANGPOO LEAGUE PENNANT

Prospects Are Better Than Fifty-fifty For Locals To Cop The Honors; It's Up To Chandler To Beat The Huron, And Then Road Is Clear

Whangpoo League Standing

	Games.	Won.	Lost.	Pc.
Huron	2	2	0	1.000
2nd Sec. 13th	1	1	0	1.000
Shanghai	4	2	2	.500
1st Sec. 13th	2	1	1	.500
Chandler	1	0	1	.000
Hovey	1	0	1	.000
Helena	1	0	1	.000

GAMES YET TO BE PLAYED

SATURDAY
Huron versus Chandler
Shanghai vs. 1st, 13th
SUNDAY
Shanghai vs. Chandler
2nd, 13th vs. Hovey,

That's how they stand, these seven baseball teams, in this special schedule of play that was arranged a week ago between the flagship's nine, the flotilla and gunboat men and the Shanghai landlubbers. You can see how the old Whangpoo league is going, and figure out for yourself which of the nines would figure in the post-season games if there was any chance of having any.

The flotilla men leave port Monday; the Helena already is marking out a wake toward Hongkong, and soon Shanghai baseball fans will have only the Huron men to match their local nine against. And when the Huron goes, shortly after the well-known fourth of July, will the local ball tossers be the champions of the spring league play, or will said pennant be tacked to the fighting mast of one of the warships?

We used to dope them out in the States. We knew whether the Giants or the Cubs or the Athletics or the Red Sox stood an earthly to get in the world series money games. Let's dope them out here:

HALF UP, DITTO DOWN

We start the doping with Shanghai half-way up the ladder to the top position, and incidentally, half-way down in the cellar. We have met four teams of gobs since the schedule was arranged, and we have split it with them. But Shanghai has played just twice as many games as any of the other teams in the league. When the whole table is played through it will show a different summary for the following several reasons:

The Huron plays its sole remaining game of the schedule on Saturday against the Chandler. The latter men are telling the world hereabouts that they can beat the Flagship nine—that they have done it before (in Manila) and can do it again. There is a keen feeling on the Chandler that it is up to them to beat the Admiral's nine. They quote that they finished ahead of the Huron in the Manila Bay League, that they beat the Philippine team which played here in the Olympic games, that they rank a win on Saturday.

The game will be a tough one, and worth getting out to the race course early to see in full. The Chandlermen, 'tis true, lost a ten-inning battle to the 1st section men last Sunday, and then the Huron trimmed the 1st section men easily on Wednesday; but that counts for nothing in baseball. Ward for the Chandler was pitching rings around the 1st section men and with any kind of a break would have won his game easily. The exhibition these Chandler men put up against the Huron Saturday will be a better tighter, kind of game. Shanghai is pulling hard for them to win, for then Shanghai will have its chance to climb up in the averages, while the Huron is held at .666 percent.

SHOULD WIN SATURDAY

Shanghai should win over the 1st section team in its half of the double header Saturday, and so go into Sunday's game with a percentage of .600 as compared to its opponent's average of .500 at best. Shanghai will be stronger Saturday and Sunday than it has been this season. With Dennison in shape for one game and Merrill for the other with Sammy Woods back to handle the middle sack, with the team picking up every day in its batting they can hit the flotilla's twirlers Poulton and McCormick plentifully for an easy win. If the Chandler can get 7 runs and 10 hits off them and if the Huron can pile up 2(runs and 14 hits in 7 innings, it is certain that Shanghai can bat ove a half dozen runs or so, and it is also certain that Shanghai can hold

Baer: SAYS "BUGS"

THE HANDWRITING ON THE WALL

Didn't Scare Ginko, Because He Couldn't Read. Got Your Straw Hat Yet?

BY "BUGS" BAER

Friend:

Me thinketh that thy man, Gink Fowler, is the bunko. Thou also soundeth like the old minnows. Where getteth thee that stuff? My man, Frank Mackin, the Fighting Quaker, is more fighting than ever now that Truly Warner sold 20,000 straw hats in Philadelphia last week. Friend Mackin met thy bevo champion and knocked him for a row of old fashioned fire plugs.

Sicknearly yours,

QUAKER OTES.

Ha, ha, ha. These boys will dig around in the ash heap for old tin cans. Gink Fowler met both those birds and slapped them for a row of freshly painted lampposts.

By the way, ain't it terrific when you figure there are now 3,000,000 lampposts in New York. Count that up on your subtracting machine. Over 6,000,000 lampposts. And you can't buy a quart of anything to make you lean up against them. They ought to sell those lampposts to the lowest bidder. What have we got to do with Truly Warner selling 20,000 straw bonnets in Philadelphia? This guy Quaker Otes was only a breakfast food for Gink Fowler, the expert rough and toughian.

He once wore clothtop shoes and read the Flapper's Home Companion, but should one youthful mistake ruin a whole lifetime? Should it? It should.

The only battle he had with Frank Mackin, the fighting Quaker was when Frank stopped giving out shoehorns with his straw hats. Gink used to wear the finest hats in the world. His full dress chapeau was the red paper top off a medicine bottle. He had a magnificent head that would have fooled any mouse trap. His ears were perfect invitation grabbers. His nose was built for inspecting ice boxes filled with biscuits and smoked salmon. His eyes looked like goose shoe buttons. When he got mad his face used to light up with joy like a barrel of gasoline shaking hands with an acetylene torch.

He was a power for good in the community of Roughtown, and no morning roll call in the jail was complete without him. He fought Congress's plan to give roller skates to the crippled soldiers of the great war. But that looks like all about Congress intends to give 'em.

The Fighting Quaker didn't have a chance. He was like Little Red Riding Hood kissing her grandma right in the wolf's face. You know how sore the middle-aged bear got when Goldilocks ate his porridge? Maybe it was the little bear.

MRS. MURRAY AND MRS. PEARSON WIN IN TENNIS FINALS

Take Two Sets, 6-4 Each From Mrs. Irwine And Mrs. Martin In S.L.T.A. Doubles

The 1921 ladies tennis doubles championship play of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association, at the Country Club yesterday afternoon saw last year's winners, Mrs. Pearson and Mrs. J. E. Murray retain their title by winning two consecutive sets, 6-4, 6-4, from Mrs. Irwine and Mrs. Martin.

The play was scheduled for a week ago, but due to the heavy condition of the courts after the recent rain it was postponed until yesterday. Playing conditions were ideal, and a big crowd was on hand.

Mrs. Pearson and Mrs. Murray in the first set had things about all their own way. Mrs. Pearson was not quite up to her usual form, but was playing a winning game. In the early play it looked like a 6-2 set.

Mesdames Irwine and Martin made a spurt, reducing the lead to 5-4, but in spite of hard play lost the next game and the set, for a score of 6-4.

In the second set Mrs. Irwine and Mrs. Martin won the first game but their opponents soon reversed the score, taking the next three. The two succeeding games brought out some excellent tennis and the score was brought to three all.

Smart driving and hard hitting in the next game gave the Irwine-Martin double the game and the lead. Interest on the part of the spectators was keen at this stage. With the score at 4-3 against them Mrs. Pearson and Mrs. Murray began a cautious game, and they soon were placing the balls with splendid effect. They were rewarded with the game, and the score at 4-4. The next two games were soon counted to them for the final score of 6-4.

Judge Skinner Turner, president of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Club presented the cup to the winning ladies. Mr. A. E. Seddon umpired.

American Polo Team Wins In England, Cup Regained By Visitors

Fashionable Assemblage, Including Members Of Royal Family, Sees Contest—Official Hurt—Wodehouse Star On Defenders' Side

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 22.—The second polo test match between teams representing England and the United States, resulted in a win for the Americans by 10 goals to 6. America thus regains the Cup.

The Prince of Wales, Princess Mary, the Duke of Connaught and the King of Spain were present at Hurlingham today. The teams were the same as those which played in the first match last Saturday.

Stoddard scored three times for America in three minutes in the first chukker, Lockett, the English back, missing badly on two occasions. Barrett then opened England's score with a beautiful goal which resulted in one goal, judge being charged over and having to be carried off the field in an ambulance. Wodehouse (England) played wonderfully. Barrett missed a penalty.

England, although always behind, were the better team, but their shooting was weak. Play on the whole was faster than on Saturday. England attacked continually to the end.

Milburn, the American back, was off color. Stoddard scored six of the American goals.

AUSTRALIANS HIT UP 538 FOR SIX WICKETS

Visitors Play Flashy Cricket Against Northamptonshire

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 22.—Playing against Northamptonshire at Northampton today in dull weather, but on a fast and dry wicket, before an attendance numbering some 6,000 spectators, the Australians took heavy toll from the easy bowling, hitting up 538 runs for six wickets. Andrews made 58, and Macartney 193 in brilliant style in a 2 hours and 35 minutes' innings, which included thirty-one fours, without giving a single chance. Taylor contributed 63, and Gregory 106, not out. His driving was vigorous, but three chances he gave were missed.

Hobbs, who sustained a serious injury when playing for Mr. Lionel Robinson's team against the Australians at the beginning of the season, today made his reappearance at the Oval, playing for Surrey against Oxford University, and was greeted with a tremendous ovation.

IT BEHOOVES ASPIRANTS IN LAWN BOWLS CHAMPIONSHIP TO GET BUSY FOR THE FINALS

June 27 Is Date Set For Decision Of First Ties; Many Matches In Singles Promise Excellent Competition

BY THE SHOT

June 27 is rapidly approaching and it behooves championship aspirants to get a move on if they wish to finish the first ties by this, the closing date. Of course we have had lots of rain and the laggard will no doubt be counting on an extension of the time limit. My advice is, use up all the sunshine you can and get your matches off otherwise you might find yourself left. As a matter of fact unless we get more rain all ties should be played off by the date at present fixed.

Looking over the singles I cannot help remarking on the number of matches which would really provide an excellent game in the final. Those between Dunlop and Mr. Dougall, Burnside and Aitkenhead and Munro and Bloom are peachy ones and either will be worth seeing.

All the six have been mentioned as prospective winners but the luck of the draw has decreed that they shall reduce their number by half of the six. I fancy Geordie Dunlop and Munro will first manage it and on any green but Hongkew, John Burnside would have my vote, but Bob's happy hunting ground seems to be Hongkew and it is a toss up who will win here.

Others likely to figure in the final are A. D. Bell, J. Buckley, O. Crewe-Read, G. B. Stormes, A. Malcolm and T. Poignand.

Reducing these to four I think the semi-finalists will be Dunlop, Malcolm, the winner of the Burnside's match and Poignand.

Looking over the pairs, one misses the effective combination of Frazer Ferrier and Archie Taylor. Year after year this pair, along with Sandy Malcolm and Willie Bissett, seem to wander along to the semi-finals at least.

I feel inclined to think the latter pair will go very close again. Their doughtiest opponents in the top half appear to be the Rec's crack pair, Bowerman and Eek.

Of course O. Crewe-Read and Mr. Dougall are an excellent pair and whoever puts them to bye-bye will have a good performance to their credit.

In the bottom half Buckley and Munro, Burnside and Stormes and Simmonds and Dunlop seem to be the plums.

Whatever happens we are certain to see some good classy bowling before we reach the finals. I must congratulate the Rec's rink skipped by T. Main, on their excellent performance when bringing back a scalp from Hongkew. Never was the pear shaped theory more flattened out than to see Torry and John Wade bowing like demons and getting almost as much fun out of the games as if they were chasing the leather.

There will be a good game on Saturday between the Juniors and the Rec's at Hongkew. The homesters are still worrying over their first defeat on the Rec's ground and have guaranteed to get their own back with interest.

On the other hand the Recs are determined to keep clean their unbeaten record, so it looks like being a rare tussle.

Their popular president Earny Lever has promised them all sorts of bonuses if they will only "beat the blighters."

I understand the Lancastrians are looking over their membership list to see if the county Palatine cannot make her presence felt on the greens. I believe they will, and to some time, but more of this anon.

Dr. Gray Grateful For Press Support For Olympic Games

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir.—Now that the Far Eastern Games are over, as the Honorary Secretary of the Contest Committee I desire to write and express the appreciation of the committee for the splendid support that was given by your paper in promoting these Games and in giving the public the best information regarding them. In looking back on the Games I have come to realise that the splendid backing on the part of the press was in a large measure responsible for the success of the Games.

I trust that the same cordial relationships which have existed in the past will continue in the days that are to come for the development of a national program in China, and I feel sure that I can call upon you for the same loyal co-operation in the future.

Yours very sincerely,

J. H. GRAY.

PEKING RESIDENTS OF HUPEH DEMAND WANG'S REMOVAL

Chief Of Metropolitan Police Receives And Agrees With Petitioners

Four hundred Peking residents of Hupeh held a demonstration at the Hsin Hua Meng on Tuesday and delivered a petition praying the dismissal of Tuchun Wang Tsan-yuan for causing the two recent mutinies in Ichang and Wuchang.

The petitioners were received by Yin Hun-shou, Chief of the Metropolitan Police, who agreed that Wang should be deprived of his power and promised to use his influence in bringing up the matter before President Hsu Shih-chang.

Meanwhile Wang himself has offered to resign, recommending the appointment of General Wu Pei-fu as his successor in Wuchang and General Chen Kwan-yuan, tuchun of Kiangsi, to be Inspector-General of the two Hu Provinces.

Chang Tso-lin, the Fengtien warlord, is once more struggling to put one of his own lieutenants in office. His nominee is Chang Hsun, the monarchist engineer of the 1917 restoration fiasco.

Dance For Navy Men At Columbia Club Tomorrow Evening

Tomorrow evening at eight o'clock a dance will be given at the Columbia Country Club, 50 Route Doumer, for the men of the U. S. warships now in port. The committee in charge have issued a considerable number of invitations and it is hoped that a large number of ladies will be present to dance with the boys of the fleet. Owing to the limited capacity of the pavilion only a proportionate number of men have been invited from each ship.

Decorations will consist of many ships flags and music will be furnished by the band of U. S. S. Huron. Light refreshments will be served during the evening. This affair may be the last before the leaving of the ships for Chefoo; however, it is sincerely hoped that one more entertainment may be given and to accommodate a larger number.

Navy Supply Bill Is Cut $90,000,000

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, June 22.—The deadlock in the negotiations between the Senate and the House of Representatives in connection with the Naval Appropriations Bill has come to an end by a virtual agreement being reached at a conference of the spokesmen of both bodies to remove from the Bill about $90,000,000 of the $93,000,000 which the Senate added to the Bill. The basis of the agreement is that Senator Borah's amendment will not be side-tracked, which the House of Representatives was supposed to have desired with a view to its replacement by a more far-reaching provision.

FUNDS FOR ENVOYS

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 22.—It is reported that the Waichiaopu has applied to the Ministry of Finance to provide funds to pay the arrears of expenses of the Chinese Legations and Consulates abroad.

A further postponement of the opening of public traffic on the Peking-Suaiyuan Railway is announced. It was originally intended that the opening should take place on June 1, and it was later postponed until July 1. As a result of damage to bridges owing to the rains, which must be repaired, the ceremony has been postponed further until September 19.

Mr. Wai Tze-liang has been appointed Secretary to the Peace Treaty Commission of the Waichiaopu.

Doctor Zucker Starts Trip To Chita

(Note: This is the first of a series of articles from Dr. Zucker, who is a professor in the University of Peking. During the Summer vacation he is making a trip into Siberia for THE CHINA PRESS and if possible in the time at his disposal, will go all the way to Moscow. His letters once he gets as far as Chita should be of very great interest.)

BY A. E. ZUCKER

En route to Mukden, June 17. Mr. Charles R. Crane, former American Minister to China, started immediately upon closing of his affairs in Peking for a visit to the Far Eastern Republic and the Soviet Republic of Russia. He is being given every possible aid by the representatives of these two governments at Peking. He is to have his own car all the way across on the Trans-Siberian—and probably will have a very good opportunity of seeing Russia as it is today and of reporting on it when he returns to America. It is a thing that is welcomed most heartily by the Russians, because to them every approach of a return to normal conditions every possible opportunity of opening trade relations, every single foreigner who goes through their territory and comes out to show the rest of the world that not everybody's head is chopped off by the Bolsheviki, and every demonstration that the Trans-Siberian is running—all this means a great deal to the Russians and they are willing to go to all manner of trouble in order to demonstrate it. Mr. Crane will surely be shown a good time in Russia.

But it is really a very humane thing of Mr. Crane to face the hardships of this journey at his age. No one could accuse the old gentleman of Bolshevism, and if Mr. Crane will emerge to tell the world some kindly things about the 180,000,000 of Russians whom he loves so much, it will be a good thing for the Russians, as well as for the rest of the world which has great need of Russia.

At the time of the Peace Conference Lloyd George would have liked to send Lord Lansdowne to Russia to report on the situation, in order to get a fair report from a man whom no one would possibly suspect of Bolshevism, but because Lord Lansdowne's health was not very good at the time the plan was given up. Now we shall hear Mr. Crane on it.

TRIP LONG PLANNED

A little north of Shanhaikuan I called on Mr. Crane in his car. He told me that he was now realising a plan which he had first attempted in 1877, namely crossing Siberia. In all his twenty-two visits to Russia he had never been able to go by this route for some reason or other. When in 1917 he had gone as a member of the Root commission he had counted on making the trip then, but because he had stayed on longer than the other members of the party he had been forced to return via Europe. But his visit seems to have been worth while in the number of experiences he has had—for example he was there at the time when Lenin arrived with the German, von Helfferich and large sums of German money. Lenin was forced to go into hiding for a while, because he had traveled through German territory and had accepted German money. I asked Mr. Crane at this point how he reconciled this action with the statement he had made a short time previous, that he thought Lenin absolutely sincere.

"I consider Lenin absolutely sincere from his own point of view," said Mr. Crane. "He believes that his kind of revolution and his social doctrine are the best things for Russia, and for this end he accepts German money (or any other kind of money) and had the moral courage to travel through German territory under the Kaiser's protection. I believe that he is a perfectly honest man."

"And Trotsky?"

"I want to tell you a little anecdote about Trotsky. In my home in New York I have a Russian cook as well as many other Russian servants. In 1917 when I returned from Russia my cook asked me whether I had seen Trotsky and when I assured her that I had done so frequently she mentioned that he owed her ten dollars. She had been a member of a Russian revolutionary society in New York and Trotsky, the editor of an obscure little sheet, had borrowed as much as he could get out of them. This story got all around and it was mentioned at a cabinet meeting by a member of the cabinet who then made the motion that the United States refuse to recognise Russia until Trotsky had paid Mr. Crane's cook her ten dollars. This motion was passed and it stands in the minutes. I have not heard that the present cabinet has rescinded this motion, and so I suppose this is still one of the chief objections to America recognising the Soviet Government."

TO GET THE TEN

"I suppose you'll give Trotsky a chance to come across with the ten?"

"Yes," said Mr. Brody, Mr. Crane's private secretary. "That's the chief aim of this expedition."

"But speaking seriously, are you going to see Trotsky?"

"I don't know," said Mr. Crane, "I'm now a private citizen and I am traveling as I always have been—I'll just wait for anything that turns up."

"What are your immediate plans?"

"I shall stop at Mukden for about two days. While there I hope to see Chang Tso-lin. My son will join me there and go on with me to Moscow and then to Prague where my other son is consul. Dr. Hornbeck, you know him, don't you, University of Wisconsin professor, is traveling with my son John now and will go with us as far as Chita, and then he returns to China."

"Are you making a report on your journey to the State Department?"

"No, I am simply traveling for my own interest just as I have always traveled all my life to wherever things looked interesting. I may see a Russian ballet in Moscow. I wanted to visit the Eldorado in Tientsin where they have Russian gipsy singers, but they told me the place wasn't ladylike enough for the American Minister to visit."

The Mission of the Far Eastern Republic in Peking gave a reception in honor of Mr. Crane yesterday morning at which the various representatives of the Government of the Far Eastern Republic were present. This Mission has made all the arrangements for Mr. Crane's journey through Russia.

The mission came to Peking about ten months ago and has been trying to arrange a trade agreement with China. Shortly after the arrival of this mission which was first headed by Mr. Yourin, who is now the Minister of Foreign Affairs in Chita, the Chinese Government refused to recognise any longer the old Russian Legation, which was drawing the Boxer Indemnity, but was not representing anybody at all. Negotiations for a trade agreement went on very slowly, and just the other day Dr. W. W. Yen, Chinese Minister of Foreign Affairs, reported to Mr. Agareff, acting head of the Mission that the agreement was being translated into English and French—this in spite of Reuter's report the other day that negotiations had been dropped on account of the coup d'etat at Vladivostok.

TELLS PURPOSES

It will be the purpose of my going to Chita to find out as much as possible about the government which these men represent at Peking. What is this Far Eastern Republic? Is it an independent state or is it a mere vassal of Moscow? Are they communistic or do they allow free trade? Are they doing anything to encourage trade, industry, education, or is everything that we read about their improvements only on paper? Have they an army, or can Ungern and Semenoff run over them easily?

Commonly it is said that a correspondent who goes to a strange country has his particular prejudices which he confirms in the course of his visit. I shall here state my prejudices before I ever enter the territory of the Far Eastern Republic, just to see how nearly my later articles will correspond to them.

I believe that the arming of 12,000,000 Russians in the war was a most democratic step, no matter for what purpose it was originally made. The citizens who had thus procured the right to bear arms have now decided which government they want. Every chance in the world was given the Russians to establish a stable government under Kolchak when by the aid of the troops of all strong nations in the world a front was established at the Urals behind which Kolchak was free to rally all "good" Russians to the democratic government which he proclaimed. But the very moment the foreign troops withdrew Kolchak's regime collapsed like a house of cards and even today the only place where a "white" can exist is under the Japanese guns at Vladivostok.

I cannot believe that the Russian people as a whole love Communism, but I believe that they prefer the present government to Semenoff and Wrangel. It is, to my mind, apparent from the fact that the soldiers who had returned from the front tired of war were willing to fight until they had driven out all the Whites, while the army of Kolchak had thousands of deserters among its most unwilling recruits. Results of the very many attempts to impose a government on Russia by foreign aid seem to show that the Russians do not want such governments and that further attempts to impose them are utter folly.

I do not know what the social and economic organisation of Siberia is, I have heard conflicting reports, ranging from American democracy to communism of property. Nor do I know whether there is any freedom of trade, of the press, or of the expression of opinion. I have heard it said that no one is permitted to travel from one place to another without government permission. I have heard that the government is powerless against robbers and that neither life nor property are safe there. About all of this and some other points I hope to learn more inside of two weeks.

Shanghai Must Win Two Games To Grab Whangpoo Pennant

them to a low score, for our defense is our strongest point.

The game Sunday, Shanghai versus the Chandler, will tell the interesting story. Conceding that the Chandler beats the Huron on Saturday, it will be the game that will decide the series in which the seven teams have competed. Should Shanghai win they will finish the "season" with a percentage of .666—even up with the Huron in averages, but with twice as many games behind them. If the Chandler wins again on Sunday they will be tied in the finals with the flagship. The game Hovey vs. the 2nd section, on Sunday, please note, is discounted. The 2nd section will have competed only in two games as compared to Shanghai's six, without meeting any of the stronger nines excepting Shanghai.

Shanghai baseball players reading this dope, please get the point—the big idea. It is this: Shanghai must win Saturday, and they must win again on Sunday. Saturday's game should be fairly easy, but Sunday's will need all of everything we have, from ability to horse-shoes. Of course the Chandler must beat the flagship on Saturday too, to give the locals their chance at the pennant, but that can be left to the Chandler boys. They are here to do it and to an innocent bystander the chances are better than even.

Free Wool Gift As 'Advertisement,' Farmers' Proposal

(Reuter's Service)

Melbourne, June 22.—The Tasmanian Farmers' Association recommend the British and Australian Wool Association to consider the advisability of making a free gift of surplus wool to the Far Eastern Governments as a trade advertisement, on the condition that the wool shall not be re-exported.

HOW TO KEEP BABY WELL IN THE HEAT.

The hot months are the most dangerous to infants and young children. The complaints of this season, which are cholera infantum, colic, diarrhoea and dysentery, come on so quickly that often the little one is beyond aid almost before the parents realise he is ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly she should have means at hand for their immediate treatment.

No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as is Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy. These pleasant-tasting little Tablets regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe. They are a remedy for simple fever, indigestion, colic, constipation, diarrhoea and worms. They make teething easy, promote healthy appetite, restful sleep and regular development.

How Many Hairs Came Out Today?
The New Discovery, GERMOL Holds Hair Tight in the Scalp.

Stop worrying now. If you see yourself getting bald. There is one way to stop your hair from falling, and to make it grow in the most luxuriant manner. GERMOL is the new discovery that produces this amazing result. The first few days will prove it. GERMOL brings about such great vigor in the hair roots that the root-sacs grip the hair strands. The result is that your hair not only stops falling but grows luxuriantly, and it brings back the original, youthful color to the hair. It is not, of course, a hair dye. Your dandruff will disappear as if by magic, and scalp itching will stop. GERMOL is easy to use, and has a pleasing odor. As a hair invigorator, and a safe means of bringing grey and faded hair back to its original color, it has no equal. Stop your hair troubles from today on; use GERMOL.

Health, Beauty And The Home

Eat More Fish

By Mrs. Christine Frederick,
The Distinguished Authority on Household Efficiency.

IN all my years of managing a home and also in writing about household topics I become desperate every once in a while and wish there were some new foods to eat. "Haven't you a whale steak, or a leg of antelope, or a zebra tenderloin?" I asked my butcher the other day. But, alas, not! And because there was no new meat to be had I naturally turned to fish.

I often turn to fish in my own home, not simply because we become tired of meat, but because I have the highest regard for the food value of fish. Being born a New Englander, the products of the Massachusetts coast have always tempted me, and I was born, I suppose, with a liking for all the products of the sea. I am astonished to meet so frequently persons to whom fish is only an indifferent dish or one of sharp dislike, and to find so many homes where fish is so rarely served that one kind is hardly known from another.

I surely do not need to prove that fish is a protein food, comparable to meat, and with the same body-building qualities. Fish belongs to the great group of muscle makers in which are listed meat, eggs, cheese, milk and certain nuts and grains like oatmeal. Further, fish is easily digested and possesses wide diversity of flavor.

There are two kinds of fish, broadly speaking, the lean or white fish, in which we include flounder, sole, perch, bass, trout, porgies, etc.; and the fatty kind, of which salmon, mackerel and white fish are good examples.

Of course, as with a great many other foods, the ideal time to eat fish is the same day on which it is taken from sea, lake or river. The next best plan is to pick out a live fish from a tank at the market and cook it as soon as you get it home. But the refinements of our modern storage system are shown nowhere to such good advantage as in the handling of refrigerator fish. It is possible in most large cities, even those some distance inland, to get in this way fine, well-flavored fish.

Possibly, one reason why fish is not higher in popular esteem is because it is so seldom delicately and properly cooked. To anyone who has lived in a country where fish is an almost daily part of the menu the average cooking of fish in America is intolerable. This is wholly unnecessary, for it is easy to learn to prepare this wholesome food in a better and more appetizing way.

The kind of cooking depends naturally on the fish. If it is a large and fat fish, or cut in thick slices, it had better be baked or broiled in order that the excess fat may be cooked out. The broiling or baking method is best with mackerel, white fish, shad, salmon, etc. On the other hand, a more delicate fish should be quickly "panned" in warm butter or laid under the grill for the necessary time.

The second secret of success in fish preparation is the sauce. Unfortunately, our national dish seems to be tomato catsup. I have seen men pour almost half a bottle of it indiscriminately on meat, fish and potato alike. But it is a crime to smother a delicately flavored food in a strong sauce. Either melted butter alone, or with chopped parsley, or a tartare sauce of mayonnaise and chopped pickles, or the right consistency of white sauce should accompany the fish—in a separate dish, but never poured over it.

But I hear a reader from an inland town say, "I cannot get fresh fish." Very well; she has the choice of buying dried fish of various kinds, or relying on the best grade of canned fish. There is a wide variety of dried fish, such as sturgeon, salmon, mackerel and herring. All these may be procured either in smoked or dried form, or in small wooden tubs in a highly salted state. The kinds of mackerel or herring are almost limitless in choice, there being spiced, smoked and all kinds of pickled varieties. The economical thing for a good-sized family to do is to purchase such a tub at the beginning of the season and use its contents in various ways to vary the daily menu.

So highly developed have become the methods of the commercial cannery that we need no longer hesitate about the purity and quality of canned fish. From salmon to sardines, anchovies, shrimps, Japanese crabs, lobster and so on we have a wide selection in reliable canned goods.

Quite unknown to many families is a product called Norwegian fish balls. These bear no resemblance to the New England fish ball of mashed potato and cod. These balls are made from the mashed pulp of some large white fish, highly seasoned and the whole made into a paste and cooled in boiling fish bouillon. A can of these balls numbers about 30, and in the best grades costs about 40 cents. They are excellent when eaten with a cream or tomato sauce, and are so delicate that they are especially good for children.

Even canned oysters and clams and clam chowder are not to be despised by the person living inland. Another excellent fish from the western waters is tunny, a rich white fish, tasting like chicken and now beginning to be well known as a basis for salad. The various pickled small fishes so familiar to the foreign population are found in the delicatessen stores in the large cities, but are scarcely appreciated at all by people in the smaller towns.

"Last of all, apply a light coat of cold cream."

A Rose-Like Skin

By Lina Cavalieri,
The Most Famous Living Beauty.

COLD cream is woman's first aid to beauty. But there are many, many kinds of cold cream to fit the various requirements of the skin.

There is the non-greasy cream for the oily skin; the astringent preparation, or wrinkle eradicator, for the loose, flabby skin, and the delicate emollient cream that acts chiefly as a tonic for strengthening the relaxed tissues. Nor is this all. There is the simple compound merely for whitening and softening purposes; a skin food containing lanolin or cocoa-butter as well as the more elaborate creams that are unsurpassed for plumpening and improving the general texture of the skin itself.

Whatever cream is used, however, it should be well rubbed into the skin, after which what remains—all that the pores will not take up—should be wiped off with a soft, absorbent cloth. If you are the possessor of a skin that is much exposed to the cold air it should be especially well looked after and guarded.

Is your face marred by unsightly red blotches? This tendency will be much more in evidence in Winter than in Summer. I would prescribe for this annoying trouble internal remedies of a cooling, laxative nature. Buttermilk is a wonderful remedy for any skin irritation of this kind. Six glasses a day are not too much to take. It is excellent for cooling the blood and is milder than many medicines frequently recommended.

Another help in clearing a mottled skin is the complexion mask. There are various kinds of mask pastes which are efficacious for curing this unlovely affliction. But to my mind the simple one given herewith is the most admirable and effective of all:

Liquid honey, 1 ounce; barley meal, 2 ounces; white of 1 egg.

As soon as you have carefully cleansed the skin at night with beauty's first aid—cold cream, then with warm water and a mild soap—apply the paste, spreading it smoothly and evenly with the fingers upon the cheeks, nose and forehead.

If you are wise in the morning you will add 10 drops of tincture of benzoin to a quart of warm water and with this remove whatever traces of the paste remain. The benzoin will act as a tonic and a tightener to the skin.

The thoughtless man or woman can do the complexion an irreparable injury by a little carelessness about going out of doors without any adequate preparation. A protracted "hike," or a too long automobile ride with the skin unprotected against the elements and the evil is done. The erstwhile attractive complexion exists in memory only. In its place is only an irritating and unsatisfactory semblance of what was formerly a fresh, soft, rose-like skin.

How to avoid such an unfortunate tragedy to beauty—for no woman was ever really beautiful without a good complexion—I shall try to tell you. But first, last and always you must practice the most unceasing vigilance.

Accordingly, be on the safe side and prepare your skin before going out of doors. Hot water should never be used on the skin. But if, on the score of cleanliness, you insist upon indulging in this pernicious habit, at least do not plan to do so immediately before going out, because hot water renders the skin acutely sensitive to cold winds and to the direct action of the sun's rays. The wind cuts more deeply into it. The sun's rays burn farther.

The best way to prepare the skin for its outing is to cleanse it with tepid water and almond meal instead of soap. The action of the almond meal is particularly soothing and cooling. As a protector, also, it would be well to dust a pure rice powder over the skin. Here is a powder I have found most valuable, if something more elaborate is desired. This powder is so impalpably fine it will stay on better if the precaution is first taken of applying a light coat of cold cream.

When you return indoors once more there is little you can do to repair the ravages of sun and wind until you are ready to retire. Then, no matter how tired you are, you must give the face three baths, first, with pure cold cream to remove the coarser dust; second, with tepid, if possible distilled, water—if not, water softened with borax or benzoin; and last, a light coat of cold cream. If the damage has not been too great these applications should restore the complexion to its former delicacy within a few days.

Beauty Secrets

MY figure is beautifully developed, but my arms are distressingly thin. How can I plumpen them?—CLEO B.

The method is simple enough, but it may take you a year, or even two years, to accomplish the desired result. Change your diet to a more nourishing and muscle building one; spend a half an hour twice a day with dumb-bells and give your arms a daily massage with cold cream or olive oil.

MY lips are chapped all the time lately. What should I do for them?—MARIE A.

Never bite your lips, and do not form the distressing habit of moistening them with your tongue. The following remedy, applied to your lips at night, will quickly restore them to their normal condition:

Castor oil	6 grams
Cocoa butter	20 grams
Oil of birch	4 drops
Extract of catechu	2 grams
Essence of star anise	10 drops

I AM eighteen and have good features, but my complexion is very poor. It is a sort of grayish color and I have both blackheads and enlarged pores. Can you help me?—LILLIAN.

A famous skin specialist recommends this simple preparation for clearing up the complexion:

Salicylic acid	50 grams
Pure lard	50 grams

To decrease the size of those pores try a daily application of an astringent lotion like this:

Rosewater	3 ounces
Elderflower water	1 ounce
Tincture of benzoin	¼ ounce
Tannic acid	5 grains

I ONCE had an abundance of lovely hair, but now I have hardly any. I also have a lot of dandruff. What can I do to remedy this condition and make the hair grow?—G. E. C.

That dandruffy condition of the scalp is exactly the cause of your hair falling out so badly. First remove the dandruff by washing the hair with this:

Yellow oxide of mercury	10 grains
Glycerine	1 dram
Alcohol	8 ounces

The above is POISON if swallowed, but will absolutely destroy the dandruff germ. To encourage the hair to grow afterward a good quinine mixture is a great aid.

Why Play Is So Good for Children

By Prof. George E. Schlafe of Indiana University.

TO play is one of the strongest and most persistent instincts. So much do boys and girls want to play that they will risk life or limb in order to satisfy this desire. Boys and girls have played through all the past ages, and the present generation of youngsters is demanding the right to play. Surely there must be some reason for this desire. But how few educators understand the true purpose of this play instinct!

The traditional schoolmaster's attitude toward play is still common in many schools. The child that desires to play is frowned upon and is thought of as lacking the serious mental attitude of a good pupil; the school is a place for work and not for play, and since play and work are diametrically opposed to each other, play must be banished from the school and, if possible, from the child's nature. Such is the belief of many instructors.

Educators who would shrink from interfering with the development of any of the sense organs deliberately formulate rules and establish curricula that directly interfere with Nature's demand for physical activity.

Nature wants all boys and girls to play, because it develops them physically. Boys and girls run, jump, climb, throw and yell in order that the muscles may develop and the vital organs become strong. The play activities cause the muscles and vital organs to exert themselves beyond the strength required for the performance of the regular duties. The extra exertion builds up a reserve supply of physical energy and this reserve supply of physical energy makes for physical fitness.

Dr. Gulick says that no possible scheme of physical training can do so much for the child as his natural play, for it is the result of selection working through unfathomable ages of evolution.

Educators are seriously interfering with Nature's method of giving strong bodies to the boys and girls when they limit the physical activities of the children. Most school systems permit but one short rest period for the lower grades during three hours of nerve-taxing work; the rest periods in many schools for the sixth, seventh and eighth grades have recently been absorbed by other school activities; and the high school that has retained its rest periods is considered antiquated.

Nature has given this desire to play in order that the boys and girls may grow in strength and stature, in grace and beauty.

Play also makes for mental alertness. The development of the nerve centres is dependent upon physical and muscular activity. Mosso and others have produced much evidence to show this close relationship.

The more mobile the extremities of an animal are, the more intelligent it is. The mutual relation of intelligence to movement is strikingly shown in comparison of a low order of men with a higher, and of feeble-minded children with intelligent. In the human child at birth the muscular system is more incomplete than in the case of any other animal. The same is true of the cerebral nerve centres.

Mosso says that this fact of the undeveloped state of the brain can be best explained only by the fact that at birth the organs which effect movement are incomplete. It is claimed that the sheathing of the cerebral fibres with myelin, upon which depend the higher processes of thought, is best effected by muscular movement.

The ancient Greeks developed a wonderful civilization, and in their system of education physical activity was considered as essential as mental activity. To throw, to jump and to run were as important as to listen to the lectures of Socrates or Aristotle.

When the child reaches the age of team loyalty and co-operation he will put forth every possible intellectual effort to fulfill the scholastic requirements necessary for interteam or interschool competition. Many a boy has been made tolerable as a student and has been saved for an education because he had the ability to hit the ball hard, to "shoot the basket," or to wriggle and squirm his way toward the opponents' goal line.

Nature demands that the child play in order that he may develop intellectually.

Play develops habits of good conduct. All games must be played according to rules. To obey the rules, especially under stress of conflict and excitement, develops self-control, courage, honesty, quick judgment, co-operation and will power. The nervous system has developed many centres of reflex action; without thinking we respond to certain stimuli or assume a defensive attitude toward threatening danger.

Boys and girls, in playing competitive games, are continually called upon to render decisions involving honesty, fairness, co-operation and will power. These decisions must be rendered quickly and accurately. Character reflex actions are developed through the instinctive desire to play.

The play desire can not be destroyed; the past ages have thoroughly ingrained it in the nervous system of all races. Since play can contribute so vitally to the welfare of the boys and girls, it should receive the same sympathetic recognition accorded the other wholesome desires. Educators should "capitalize" the play spirit, because through it wonderful results may be secured for pupil, school and community.

Play will assist in making the boys and girls physically fit, mentally alert and in preparing them for a better citizenship.

Household Hints

For a Damp Cellar.

SPRINKLE quicklime over the cellar bottom to absorb the moisture.

If Apples Are Scarce.

BOILED beets, finely chopped, can be used instead of apples in putting up mincemeat.

Washing Brooms.

A BROOM will last longer and do better work if washed occasionally in warm, soapy water.

For Shellacked Floors.

A CUPFUL of kerosene to each pail of lukewarm water is just the thing for washing shellacked floors.

Soda in the Sink.

POUR a strong solution of washing soda down the sink at night to keep the drainpipes in good, clean condition.

A Higher Table.

IF your kitchen table is too low buy brass knobs or doorstops at the hardware store and screw into the legs.

A Shirtwaist Box.

AN empty cracker box from the grocer's makes a fine shirtwaist box when covered with pretty cretonne and lined with some contrasting color.

Household Hints

When Baking Beans.

A FIVE-POUND tin lard pail makes a very satisfactory dish for baking beans.

A Delicious Cake.

A DELICIOUS orange cake can be made by substituting orange juice for milk in a plain cake recipe.

Good as Fresh Fruit.

WHEN there is no fresh fruit for breakfast try adding a few currants, prunes or raisins to the oatmeal or other cereal.

Coddled Eggs.

EGGS are most healthful when cooked by pouring boiling water over them and letting them stand in this until wanted for eating.

Keeping Flowers.

TO keep cut flowers fresh a long time cover with wet cloth or newspapers so that no air can reach them and put in a damp place.

Those Old Needles.

DISCARDED talking machine needles make excellent substitutes for brads to use when framing pictures.

Fruit Extract.

IF berries are too wilted to serve on the table cook them, press out the juice and bottle it for use as a flavoring extract.

The Well-Known Writer and Lecturer on Cooking.

Steak with Vegetables.

CUT 2 pounds round steak in small servings, dredge with flour, sprinkle with salt and paprika and brown evenly in beef and bacon drippings. Add 8 small onions, 1 cup diced turnips, 1 cup strained tomato juice, 1½ teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon paprika and boiling water to cover. Cook gently about 2½ or 3 hours, adding more water as needed. Remove to hot serving dish, arrange vegetables around steak and garnish with 2 cups of well-seasoned cooked green peas.

Braised Steak.

WIPE a thick slice of round steak, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dredge with flour and brown in a little beef or bacon drippings with 1 teaspoon finely minced onion and 1 allspice berry. When evenly browned drain off some of the fat, add 2 cups brown stock or water, 1 cup strained tomatoes, 2 small mild onions, 1 carrot, 1 sliced turnip and a small sprig of parsley. Cover and cook gently about 3 hours. Remove meat from sauce, strain sauce and thicken with flour or cornstarch and serve with the meat.

Smothered Steak.

DELICATELY brown 1 sliced onion in 3 or 4 tablespoons bacon or salt pork fat. Wipe a thick slice of round steak, place it in the hot fat and brown evenly. Add 1½ cups cold water and ½ teaspoon salt. Bring quickly to boiling point, cover and simmer until very tender. Remove to hot platter and strain the gravy. Melt 1 tablespoon butter, add 2 tablespoons flour and blend well. Gradually add the strained gravy and stir until thick and smooth. Season to taste with salt and paprika and pour over the steak.

Braised Stuffed Steak.

TRIM a large thin slice of round steak into rectangular shape. Prepare a stuffing of 2 cups stale bread crumbs or rice and crumbs, 2 tablespoons melted butter, ½ teaspoon poultry seasoning, salt and paprika to taste and boiling water to moisten. An egg may be added. Spread evenly on steak. Roll up like a jelly roll and tie or skewer in position. Cook the trimmings in a large frying pan and brown the steak roll evenly. Then place in a deep baking dish or casserole add 1 dozen small onions, sprinkle with salt and paprika add water to half cover meat and bake slowly 2 or 3 hours in oven or fireless cooker.

In The U. S. Court For China

Claude W. Glover,
Plaintiff,
vs.
Robert Dollar Company,
Defendant.
Cause No. 1252
ORDER
Filed June 22, 1921.
Acting Clerk.

SYLLABUS
(By the Court)

1. Pleading: Conditions. Where a party bases his claim on the acceptance of a conditional offer, performance of the condition must be alleged.

2. Parties: Joinder. One of several parties united in interest cannot sue to enforce the same without joining the others.

R. T. Bryan, Jr., Esquire, for the demurrer.
John W. Schoenfeld, Esquire, contra.

Lobingier, J.:

Defendant demurs to a petition alleging that plaintiff was the chief engineer of a certain ship whose ownership is not stated, and accepted an offer contained in the following letter:

"Shanghai, April 12, 1920.
Capt. Wilson,
s.s. "Hwah Jah."
SHANGHAI.
Dear Sir:

Confirming our conversation with you of a few days ago, relative to the officers and engineers of your vessel co operating with us, we beg to advise that providing we get ful support and co-operation from al of you we will make the following settlement with you at the expiration of our charter party:

	per month
Captain	G.$400.00
Chief Officer	„ 200.00
Chief Engineer ..	„ 250.00
2nd Engineer ...	„ 200.00

We are sending copy of th letter to our San Francisco office to acquaint them of our arrangement with you. As explained to you, you and your officers and engineers can be of great assistance to us in getting the vesse around and we are pleased to state that we feel from the manner in which you have thus far worked with us that we can look forward to getting considerable assistance at your hands and that our relations will be of the pleasantest.

Wishing you much success in the present voyage, we are,
Yours very truly,
THE ROBERT DOLLAR CO.,
(Signed) By O. G. Steen." (Ex. A

Plaintiff further alleges that he "fully performed and carried out for and on behalf of the said defendant Corporation and for its benefits, the services as stated in defendant's aforesaid written offer." (Par. 4).

Demand and refusal of payment are then alleged and plaintiff claims damages in the sum of $1,750.00 United States currency.

It will be seen that plaintiff alleges no contract other than such as may have resulted from the offer above quoted. But the offer is conditional; the sums there stated are promised only "providing we get full support and co-operation from all of you." And the petition fails to allege that this condition was ever complied with. True it alleges that plaintiff "fully performed and carried out . . . the services as stated," but plaintiff is only one of four persons referred to in the offer and their "full support and co-operation" was quite as essential as plaintiff's. Under the most liberal system of pleading the performance of conditions preceding must be alleged (1) and a petition which fails in this respect is demurrable.

We do not think the rule would be different if the petition were to be treated, as plaintiff's counsel claims it should be, as a libel in admiralty. Even in such a pleading

"the allegations should be certain and perspicuous, and contain a statement of every fact material to the maintenance of the case." (2)

And while a general averment that conditions have been performed will suffice in admiralty (3) as under the codes, (4) we find no authority for omitting such an averment altogether. The new Supreme Court rules on the subject certainly contain no such indication. They provide:

"The libel shall also propound and allege in distinct articles the various allegations of fact upon which the libellant relies in support of his suit, so that the respondent or claimant may be enabled to answer distinctly and separately the several matters contained in each article." (5)

We are also of the opinion that that any interest created by the acceptance of said offer would be a joint interest which

"is looked upon as a unit and can be asserted only in the names of all its owners, as parties to the action." (6)

We find no different rule in the admiralty practice (7) though under the Extraterritorial Remedial Code, (8) another such party who refuses to join as plaintiff may be made a defendant.

Upon either ground the demurrer must be

SUSTAINED.

Judge.

Rotary Club Has Interesting Session

One of the most successful meetings of the Shanghai Rotary Club was held at the Astor House yesterday when Mr. H. B. Pond, vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Commercial Company, of Manila; Mr. Josef W. Hall, staff correspondent of THE CHINA PRESS at Peking, and Mr. D. Y. Lin, Government Commissioner of Forestry, were principal speakers.

Mr. Pond gave an interesting address on present day conditions in the Philippine Islands, while Mr. Hall emphasised the importance of a stable government in China. Mr. Lin, who has conducted research work in forestry in 14 provinces spoke on the necessity of afforestation in China. The text of his speech on this important subject will be found on the editorial page.

Earl Currens, the popular leader of the Astor orchestra, played and sang several hits and Bertie Hayes, the violinist, gave a solo and performed some stunts on his instrument, to accompaniments by Mr. Currens.

A rousing send-off was accorded by the many members present to Mr. T. E. Doremus, eastern manager of the E. I. Dupont de Nemour Export Co., Inc. and Mr. H. B. Lane, electric salesman of Andersen & Meyer, who are leaving for the States on the Empress of Russia on Saturday.

BUSINESS AND OFFICIAL NOTICES

The Resolutions of Shanghai Laundry-Men's Guild for Increasing Laundry-Charges Towards Foreign Patrons

In order to protect our business from interference by S.M.C. Health Department, and maintain our living in this time of hard struggle, we, laundry-men at Shanghai, have formed the said guild for promoting our common interests, sanitary purposes, mutual helpfulness, and getting rid of those bad attempts between two sides; that is our men and servants of foreign houses. For such purposes, we carry out the following resolutions which we hope would meet foreign patrons' approval. They are as follows:—

1.—Every laundry-master should report to the guild with full address of his foreign patrons written on the special book; after receiving his report the guild should send man to investigate whether the fixed laundry-charges are contracted by monthly or each suit counting.

2.—It has been resolved that the fixed monthly charges are divided into: at dealing with blankets, trousers, increasing 2 times more than those former fixed charges (see prices fixed in the V Resolution) at if disapproval of the former apply, stop monthly laundry-service after the patrons' bills fully paid. At every laundry being prohibited to take the monthly laundry-service for such patrons until getting assurance. (The reason why is explained in the X Resolution); other laundry if willingly to take such services for such patrons, being wisely advised first to report to the guild with addresses of such patrons according to the I Resolution.

3.—It has been resolved that clothes of those Chinese servants in the foreign houses are rejected to take into any laundry. (They always force the laundry-men to do so); the laundry-masters always get heavy fine for this purpose. According to the XII Article of S.M.C Health Department for the purpose of preventing plague from being prevailed to iron the wet clothes is prohibited. If foreign patrons themselves are willingly to have their clothes to be ironed they are requested to sign their names and the amount of wet clothes that should be clearly put down in the 3 duplicate-books. (It should be fully explained in the XII Resolution) otherwise the laundry-master should be fined both by the guild and S.M.C.

Those washed clothes should be examined personally by foreign patrons respectively.

4.—In order to prevent those irregular patrons from violating what is said in the above mentioned (3) the laundry should prepare another 3 duplicate-books for servin, the same. The charges should be fixed exclusively.

5.—It has been resolved that every laundry should resume their business as usual. For the sake of protecting our capitals from being loss and observing the regulations of S.M.C. Health Department for cleanliness, the guild has fixed the charges as following that are uniformly enforced by all laundries at Shanghai. They are as follows:—

1.—Big-sized suits of clothes at percent	$6.00
2.—Small-sized suits of clothes at percent	.4.00
3.—Summer overcoats of wood-fabric, pongee, other ripe or raw silk clothes to be washed by exceptional process each at	.20
4.—The above varities to be washed by ordinary process, each of its charge is not increasing; that is, it is charged according to the former rate.
5.—Clothes from foreign restaurants, bars, hotels, clubs, and companies, counting by whole amount, each at	.03
6.—All overcoats, no matter how the material is, each uniformally charged at..	.20

6.—Beginning from 1st July all old or new laundries should get certificates and 3 duplicate-books from the guild respectively. Both sides (Patrons and Laundries) should sign on the 3 duplicate-books. The process can save the trouble of mis-distribution in number of clothes from one to another, denying of tearing or broken spots by both sides, escaping with patrons' clothes by any dishonest laundry man.

7.—Every laundry-master should pay the fees of the certificate and 3 duplicate-books according to the net price paid by the guild to the printers.

8.—Bills should be printed by the printers specially hired by the guild only. When the laundry-master wants blank bills he should send his accounts to the guild that is authorised to examine these accounts, then blank bills are given and checked without any mistakes.

9.—If the laundry-master is to take charge of another's old business, he must see whether the certificate or duplicate-books have been withdrawn. If not, he could not get new ones from the guild.

10.—If the laundry-master will take the new patron's washing clothes, he is advised better to send this report first to the guild than before to have the new business. It is in defense of owing account to the former laundry.

11.—When any laundry-man goes to the patron's house for taking washing clothes, he should request the patron to count the number of clothes to be washed and sign the duplicate-books personally. If the patron is out or any one substitutes for him to do so, that one who signs should take the responsibility.

12.—If any laundry-master is violent the above-mentioned resolutions, he should be fined $30 for the fund of common object. If he rejects to be fined the guild has power to sue him in the Court for the fault of breaking the regulation of the guild.

13.—These regulations are submitted to corrections, provided the majority thinks to be so.

Breakfast is served on the outward journey, tiffin can be ordered on the car in the Railway siding at Henli, and dinner is obtainable on the train during the return trip. Breakfast 75 cents, tiffin $1.50 and dinner $1.50 each.

This excursion affords an excellent opportunity of getting away from town for a day into the beautiful country-side during the best period of the year.

The 10 hours at Henli give ample time for rowing, swimming, or houseboat enjoyment.

At Kunshan the 9½ hours can be enjoyably spent in visiting the Gardens and Pagodas. The latter stand on the summit of Kunshan Hill, inside the city walls and can be reached in half an hour by rickshaws or by walking through the city from Kunshan station.

Soochow is noted for the well kept Private Gardens and also Tiger Hill with its Pagoda on the top, and 8 hours between the arrival and departure of the Sunday Special can be well spent in seeing these places. The city temple and silk shops inside the city are also well worth a visit. There are several Hotels at Soochow, at which foreign food is served.

Wusih city is a great silk center, and the 6 hours before the train is due to return can be filled by taking a trip to Wei Hill, two miles from Wusih Station, which can be easily reached by rickshaw, sedan chair or boat in the course of an hour. Those who climb to the top of the Hill will be rewarded with a magnificent view of Wusih city, and the Great Ta Hu Lake.

Time-tables and copies of illustrated pamphlets giving full information in regard to the above, and other points of interest can be obtained on application at the Enquiry Office Shanghai North. Seats on the train can be reserved by telephoning North 3199.

The "Conseil d'Administration Municipale de la Concession Francaise de Changhai" hereby invite subscriptions for 20,000 debentures of Tls. 100 each, according to the resolution passed at their General Meeting on May 30, 1921.

The conditions on which the Debenture Certificates will be issued are:—

1°—The Debenture Certificates are transferable, and the person whose name is entered in the Register of Debenture Certificate or Certificates, shall alone be recognised and treated by the Council as the lawful and rightful holder and owner of such Debenture Certificate or Certificates.

2°—The loan will be redeemable at par (Tls. 100) in not less than 10 years and not more than 30 years, from 1st July 1921 and according to the figures determinated by the Council.

3°—The loan will bear interest at 8% per annum, payable on the 30th day of June and 31st of December in each year, when interest warrants will be issued to the registered owners.

4°—The property and income of the Municipality, deducting those which serve as security provided in the Municipal Loans of 1903, 1911, 1914 and 1916 are the security for the repayment of the money advanced and for the interest thereon in the present loan.

The Members of the French Municipal Council are not personally liable in any way for the payment of either principal or interests.

5°—The Debenture Certificates will be issued and bear interest from 1st July 1921.

6°—Applications for debentures will be received at the Secretary's Office, Rue du Consulat, from June 20 next.

A chequee representing the amount of debentures asked for and payable on June 30th must be deposited at the same time.

7°—Applications for Debentures under par will not be recognised by the Council.

8°—For further informations, apply to Mr. P. LEGENDRE, Secretary, French Municipal Council.

Shanghai, 31st May 1921.
P. LEGENDRE,
38877. Secretary.

Exchange Quotations

Asia Banking Corporation

June 23, 1921

Spot and forward bar silver were each down 1/4d. in London yesterday.

The New York price declined to 58¾ cents and the London-New York cross rate improved to 375¾. The official rates here today were unchanged from yesterday with the exception of the Franc rate which was raised to 810. The market in the forenoon was fairly steady, business in Sterling being done at 3/6¼ and in Gold Dollars at 66½. In the afternoon, however, rates eased off and the market closed easy with no sellers of Sterling at better than 3/5¾ and of Gold Dollars at 65¾. Speculators sold some exchange in the morning but in the afternoon became buyers. There were a few bills offering but not in any particular volume. London reports the silver market there as being rather easier and advices from New York are to the same effect. A further drop in silver, therefore, during the next day or two would not be unexpected.

Shanghai Tramways

The following is the Traffic Return of the Shanghai Tramways (Foreign Settlement) for the week ended June 22, 1921, with figures for the corresponding week last year:

	1921	1920
Gross receipts	$55,993.96	$47,491.31
Loss by currency depreciation	17,665.62	12,442.36
Effective receipts	$38,328.34	$35,048.95
Percentage of loss by currency depreciation	33.28	27.66
Car miles run	106,663	89,837
Passengers carried	2,507,637	2,137,156

Hongkong Share Market

Messrs. Moxon and Taylor write as follows in their weekly share report dated Hongkong, June 17:

Our market has been on the quiet side during the week under review, but a fair amount of business has been done, principally for cash. The Shanghai market continues firm, Ewo Cotton Mills are wanted at Tls. 24¼, Orientals Tls. 17¼. Shanghai Cottons have been the medium of considerable business, and have risen sharply during the week, closing with buyers at Tls. 153 cash with practically no shares coming out.

Rubber remains in the same stagnant condition.

Hongkong Banks:—Have been done at $745 ex rights. Rights are wanted at $140 premium with no sellers under $145 premium.

Cantons:—Are wanted at $400.

Hongkong Fires:—Are firm at $315.

Unions:—Have been up and down owing to the rise in exchange, and were down as low as $235, but close strong with buyers at $242½ and no sellers under $245.

Hongkong Docks:—Have been the medium of small business and close with sales at $211.

Deferred Indos:—Are steady at $275 London Register ex dividend, and $270 Hongkong Register ex dividend.

China Sugars:—Have been the medium of some business at declining prices but close with buyers at $205.

Cements:—Have had a further rise during the week and close at $17.25.

Hongkong Lands:—Are wanted at $194.

Shanghai Docks:—Are steady at $148.

Hongkong Electrics:—Have risen during the week and close with sales at $24¼ and 24½.

Humphreys:—Are wanted at $10½.

Hongkong Trams:—Have been done at $13.70 and close steady with buyers at $13½.

Shell Transports:—After coming to business at 117/6 close with sellers at the rate.

The Problem Of Forestry In China

BY D. Y. LIN, M. F.

(Note: This is part of an address delivered before the Shanghai Rotary Club yesterday.)

CHINA today holds a unique place as the only large civilised country where forestry has been practically neglected. What forestry has done in other countries stands out in bold relief against the background of deforested and devastated China. Deforestation has been allowed to go on for centuries, and perhaps it will continue for many years to come. I remember just at this time the words of an interesting foreign observer who has recorded among other things the forestry conditions in China, and this is what he writes: "Nowhere in the world is the forest cleaned off down to the very soil as it is in China. When the trees are gone, the saplings, the shrubs and even the herbage are taken. Slender poles are used to build houses; considerable shrubs are turned into charcoal. In the lower mountains of north-eastern China, where the stripping process has reached its extreme phase, there is no trace of anything worthy of the name of forest.

"In the province of Shantung where deforestation is practically complete, fuel and fodder for cattle are literally scratched from the hillsides by boys who go out from villages with their iron rakes in autumn to secure winter supplies. Grazing animals, searching every ledge and crevice, crop the remaining grass down to the very roots."

Gentlemen, the above description is only one instance of numerous similar ones which might be cited. I have traveled through fourteen provinces in China and have visited and lectured in the interest of forestry in more than one hundred hsien cities, and I can bear witness to what has been frequently written or said concerning the appalling consequences of deforestation throughout China.

As has been mentioned, one of the forlorn results of forest devastation in China is the scarcity of wood. This is acutely felt and will be more so as time goes on. The new development in railroad, mines and modern industrial establishments, and the change from the old-type one-story building to the modern three-story or higher, are daily increasing the demand for wood in China. It is estimated that the greater portion of the present consumption outside of treaty ports is still from home supply, but this source is becoming more and more limited and wood more difficult to secure. This is accounted for by the gradual receding of forests to inaccessible places, and to get timber out of such places is a problem not to be easily solved. It is said that from the forests in southern Hunan and Anhwei it takes from one to three years to float rafts of logs down to the markets on the Yangtsze, and that it takes even more time from the forests in the more distant provinces. If this is true, we can see why there is such a large importation of foreign woods every year into China, and why it is not as absurd as it may seem that China should have to import lumber from Sweden, Australia and other distant countries.

We have often heard it said that the natural resources of China, with the exception of its forests, are unsurpassed; but gratifying as that thought is, we are forced to remember that these very resources demand for their utilisation the one product which China lacks or possesses only in an inadequate degree. China today has more than 6,000 miles of railroad, and doubtless many more thousand miles will be added within the next decade. These 6,000 miles of railroad lie on not less than 13,000,000 wooden ties and require annually at least 2,000,000 more for renewals. But as is to be expected, these ties are nearly all imported, and for the coaches themselves foreign wood is employed. The same is true of her bridges, her docks, her mine props, and a thousand other things.

The shortage of wood has resulted not only in subjecting China to a severe handicap in the world's industrial rivalry but also in creating a depressing social condition which affects most woefully the economy, the health and the efficiency of the Chinese people as a whole. Prof. Fernow of the University of Toronto has said: "Our civilisation is built on wood. Civilisation is inconceivable without an abundance of wood. From the cradle to the coffin in some shape or other, it surrounds us as a convenience or as a necessity. So general and far-reaching has its use become that a wood famine, however, improbable its occurrence, would be almost as serious as a bread famine."

The price of timber for building, carving, carpentry and for the manufacture of farm implements, wheelbarrows, and endless other things, has in some places become well-nigh prohibitive. The huts of poorly baked mud with mud floors, mud walls, and mud roofs, the absence of adequate wooden furniture in homes, the burning of dried dung and dried grass for warmth and cooking—all this shows how the inhabitants have been reduced to the necessity of using lamentably inadequate substitutes. Those of us who have visited and lived in such adobe houses will appreciate how unhealthy, depressing, and unhomelike such places are. Again we see thousands of men, women and children spending the autumn months in collecting grass and refuse and in digging up little roots and stubs from the already denuded hillsides for their winter supply.

The absence of material comfort, wrought by deforestation however, is most insignificant when compared with the misery, suffering, and loss brought about by the annual visitation of floods. Some people have said that the great floods in China are caused by exceptional meteorological conditions and that the development of forestry cannot control them. This is no doubt true, but the best thought on the subject the world over and most thorough investigations show that forests are a great help in checking soil erosion, in regulating streamflow, in controlling destructive waters—hence in lessening the severity and frequency of floods. As a forester, I wish to say that there is absolutely no excuse for our having such severe floods almost every year.

China, the horrible example of forest neglect, may also be called a horrible nation for floods. There are floods in Hunan, floods in Anhwei, floods in Kwangtung and floods in Chihli. There is not a single year in which floods devastating different parts of the country are not reported. Anyone who has visited the flooded areas will know how sweeping and terrible some of the floods are. Every year hundreds of thousands of people are driven homeless, some are starved and some have to become robbers or soldiers. Now under such abnormal conditions can there be comfort, peace and prosperity? Can we except patriotism? Or is it reasonable to expect a man to take an active part in the government when his every hour is used in combating intolerable conditions of cold, hunger and flood?

It is said that 12 percent of the population of Germany or over 30 percent of the population of some of the Western States of America is employed in forest work and forest industries. Such an estimate should at once open our eyes to the social conditions existing in our country today where thousands upon thousands are unemployed, many of whom have become beggars or robbers. Can we not say that the immense tracts of unused lands and the multitudes of unemployed are related to each other as cause and effect?

So much has been said of the economic effects of deforestation in China, let us now for a few moments consider the physical effects. These physical effects of deforestation in China, about which hosts of travelers, missionaries, and scientists for upwards of a century have given testimony, I cannot more forcibly bring before you than by quoting the most vivid description of an American traveler. He said: "On the Kowloon hills opposite Hongkong there are frightful evidences of erosion due to deforestation several hundred years ago. The loose soil has been washed away till the country is knobbed or blistered with great granite boulders. Erosion stripped the soil down to the clay and the farmers had to abandon the land.

"The denuded hill-slopes facing the West River have been torn and gullied till the red earth glows through the vegetation like blood. The coast hills of Fukien have lost most of their soil and show little but rocks. No river could drain the friable loess of Northwest China without bringing down great quantities of soil that would raise its bed and make it a menace in its lower sluggish course. But if the Yellow River is more and more 'China's sorrow' as the centuries tick off, it is because the rain runs off the deforested slopes of its drainage basin like water off the roof of a house and in wet seasons rolls down terrible floods which burst the immense and costly embankments, spread like a lake over the plain and drown whole populations.

"Nowhere is the havoc wrought by deforestation more evident than in Northwest China. Around Taiyuanfu all the once-wooded mountains are bare and bone dry. Down through the province one sees no trees on mountain or foothill save those about temples."

We doubtless can appreciate now why China has long been held up before the civilised world as a horrible example of forest neglect.

It is said that there are about 357,827,000 acres of cultivated land in China Proper, Manchuria, and Sinkiang, not considering Mongolia and Thibet. If this is a fair estimate, we may conservatively say that there are about 1,207,800,000 acres of land that are either not yet cultivated or not fit for agriculture. Undoubtedly those lands which are unfit for agriculture form much the larger portion of the uncultivated area, and, as such, they should be devoted to forestry purposes. European forestry, which has led in scientific thoroughness, shows what ought to be gotten from non-agricultural lands or lands that have been used for forest production. Now if China were to get a revenue of say one dollar per acre, which is a ridiculously low estimate, we would get some idea of the enormous revenue which should come from these hundreds of millions of acres of lands yet to be developed.

Friends, this, in short, is the problem of forestry in China. It is a national problem which must be solved in the near future. I call your attention to it this afternoon not in any way to discourage you, but to ask you, as well-wishers of China, to look at it from a constructive viewpoint.

To conclude I wish to mention that great beginnings have already been made. Already Shantung, Shansi, Hupeh, Honan, Kirin, Hulungkiang, Kuangtung, Shensi, Anhwei, Kiangsi, Kiangsu and Chekiang have organised provincial forest services. The establishment of forest nurseries both public and private, the adding of forestry courses in the curricula of agricultural colleges and universities, the creation of the so called "educational forests" in Kiangsu and Anhwei, the starting of a national forestry association, the observance of Arbor Day, the development of railroad forestry—all these show what forestry interest has been shown and what progress has already been made to prepare our government for the prodigious program of reforestation, which as I have said must be taken up in the near future on a national scale.

You will no doubt hear a great deal more on this subject as time goes on, and I do sincerely hope that, as well-wishers of China, you will not refrain from giving constructive suggestions and advice to those of us who are in the work; for while I believe that the solution of the forestry problem like all other problems must be done by the Chinese themselves, the sympathetic attitude of our foreign friends is also indispensable.

The Cream Of Europe

BY SENATOR JAMES A. REED

From a Recent Speech In the U. S. Senate.

I have more faith in my country and its institutions than some people. I think that our country is so much better than any other country that nine hundred and ninety-nine out of a thousand who come here, not merely as laborers but men intending to live here, can be absorbed and can be inspired with a love and reverence for our institutions. Has it not always been so?

How did your ancestors get here anyway? Do you think that God Almighty went around and picked out a few select individuals of the highest character and morals and respectability and brought them here, and you have descended from that particular stock?

You are descended from people who came here not one wit better than the men and women who are coming now. A lot of your ancestors worked their passage over here as bondmen and sold themselves into temporary slavery in order to get here.

Some of you may find, if you will go back far enough, that your great-great-great-grandmother was sold on the auction block and paid for in long green tobacco by the enterprising gentleman over here who wanted a wife.

Some of you may easily now trace your ancestors back to the fellow who came over here without a dollar in his pocket, clattering wooden shoes upon the docks, with a wife following him, with an old shawl over her head and a pack of kitchen tools upon her back.

It requires no courage for a man with his pockets bulging with money and his head filled with ideas gained from education to emigrate to a new country, because he has the means to take care of himself.

But it requires a high degree of courage for a man to take his wife and his little children and go into a foreign land with no money, with no capital save his own courage and his strong arm, to front new fields to engage in a contest with other men for a livelihood in a land where he is unfamiliar with their laws, unfamiliar with their language and ignorant of their habits.

So for that very reason we have been getting all these years in these humble folk really the cream of the heart and brain and soul of Europe.

My honey love, the pigs is doin' well.
I wisht that you was hear to watch them eat;
I love you so no tung can ever tell;
I hope the mocasuns don't hirt your feat.
I done some work around the place today,
And things is lookin' beautiful here;
It's awfle lonesum, tho, with you away—
Please soon be headin' for the big woods, dear!

If ennybuddy thare makes love to you,
I'll kill them—so you no the way I feel!
The place is all cleaned up as good as new;
The pigs is hungry by the way they squeel.
I often get the nightmare in the night
Becoz you haven't wrote and I am sad;
The chicks is peckin' thru the shells all rite,
I hope that you ain't feelin' quite so bad.

I bot a bushel and a half of beans,
And yesterday I cot a speckeld trout;
Awkwoogle—you remember what that means—
So please, dear, pack your trunks and hurry out.
I lay and lissen to the wind at nights,
And hear it whisperin' your name to me;
Don't take no foren trip; up here is sites
That it will give you happiness to see.

I got the corn and onions planted now,
And send a four-leaf clover, dear, for luck;
I love you so I cannot tell you how,
My beautiful Kain-tan-to-ran-to-chuk!
Come soon, my honey sweet; the pine trees moan
Becoz they do not hear your morning song;
I set and wait and watch for you, my own,
And, oh, the days is lonely and so long!

A Play in many Spasms.
Time: The Present.
Spasm I Scene: The Town Hall.

Chairman: Friends, roamers, countrymen
Lend me your ears!
We come to ask your favor, not your malice!
Will you hold up your hands, the budget pass.

Bruce: Oh Brook, thou art an honorable man!
But list—
Before we pass the budget tell me true
If salaries increase for all your kind,
If monkey houses rise with marble domes,
Will taxes soar, to make ratepayers sore?

Chairman: Right valiant Bruce, 'tis true that rate will rise
'Tis true that monkey houses will exist,
But why sir, why thy anxious frown?
Hold up thy hand, and vote, and then sit down.

Bruce: No, no. Fellow Ratepayers!
These are all honorable men,
But do not let them increase our burden now
The Budget shall not pass—

A Voice: Bow wow!

Chairman: Those in favor? Those against?
(The Budget does not pass)

SCENE II. THE GARDEN BRIDGE

Bruce: What do these varlets here?
I e'en will talk to them.
What doest thou here with axe and rod?

Coolie: I come this side, this tlee must cuttee down.

Bruce: What? ! ? cease thy barbarous action.

Coolie: I no savee you, this tlee must cuttee down.
(Bruce tears his hair and sheds tears)

Bruce: Oh woodman spare that tree.
Many a time and oft have I sat
Beneath its wond'rous shade
With cigarette—they're good—Green Jade—
And thought upon this world's wide woes
And been accompanied by mosquitoes.

Coolie: I too muchee solly!
Suppose you no wanchee me cuttee down
You talkee Master Godfley.

Bruce: Ah! true—and one petition will I write
To solve the trouble and put all things right.

SCENE III. ANY OLD OFFICE

(Seated at desk is Taipan, smoking a cigar. Broker rushes in, mutters half a dozen sentences, that are quite unintelligible to the typist, and then rushes out.)

Enter Bruce.

Bruce: Excuse me sir, but will you kindly sign
This mild petition that I have in hand?

Taipan: Sure! And what's it all about?

Bruce: They would cut down my favorite tree
The tree you know Magnolia by name,
They'd cut it down dear sir, they'd cut—

Taipan: Damn shame!
Pass me the quill and here I do protest
'Gainst cutting down that tree.

Bruce: Fair sir, my thanks, posterity will thank you
For having saved the tree—and me!

(Enter Antibruce)

Antibruce: Excuse me Sir, but will you kindly sign
This mild petition that I have in hand?

Taipan: Sure! What's it all about?

Antibruce: We would cut down some trees quite near The Bund
That trams and motors may career in safety.

Taipan: Pass me the quill and let me write
And thus set all things right.

The Distribution of Jade.

Jade implements have been found in considerable numbers among the relics of the Swiss lake-dwellers, and also in New Zealand, in the islands of the Pacific, in Central America, Alaska, and elsewhere, and the facts of their distribution are of great interest in ethnography.

Much of the Nephrite used by the Chinese has been obtained from quarries in the Kuen-lun mountains, on the sides of the Kara-Kash valley, in Turkestan.

The colour of Jade presents various shades of green, yellow, and grey, and the mineral when polished has a rather greasy lustre.

England After The War — A Review By Gertrude Athertor

The Kingdom Round The Corner. By Coningsby Dawson. New York: The Cosmopolitan Corporation.

Whatever temporary success didactic or sordidly realistic novels may achieve, it is an indisputable fact that the real mission of fiction is to interest, to distract, to create so complete an illusion that the reader, often a disheartened and weary reader, is translated into a realm of fancy which includes for the hour a complete forgetfulness of his own problem. Therefore the highest praise one can give a novel is that it is interesting and absorbs.

One may with a clear conscience award this high praise to "The Kingdom Round the Corner." It has all the grammatical errors and solecisms peculiar to even the best of English novels. It has moments of quite unbearable sentimentality, and it trails off into shameless romance at the end. Nevertheless, you not only read it with bitter protest against all interruptions, but you feel quite positive that in spite of certain fictionistic exaggerations, you are getting an accurate and valuable picture of post-war conditions in England.

The theme is similar to that of Locke's book, "The Mountebank." A man of low degree enters the Great War as an humble private, and, through unsuspected talents, including that of command, rises to the rank of Brigadier General, is received on his merits in the most exclusive London houses, when on leave and until he is "demobbed" after the war is over; then is summarily dropped, not only by the army, but by society which promptly abjures democracy and returns to pre-war standards. In "The Mountebank," the poor hero, finding all other jobs closed to him, returns to his mean profession, so unjust are the conditions of what, for want of a better world, we call civilisation, and in spite of the fact that he is a man of real intellectual attainments and born to be as useful as he is unornamental. In "The Kingdom Round the Corner," the man refuses to return to valeting, but as no one can find any use in civil life for his abilities, he becomes an agitator.

Here the resemblance ends. When you have finished Lock's book you remember nothing but the Mountebank, who seems to curve like a bristling spine over the story, merely fed by the subsidiary characters. In Mr. Dawson's novel the valet is not even the hero—although by far the most interesting character—and many of the other people, notably the hero, Lord Taborley ("Tabs"), are of equal importance.

Tabs has, one might say, like many another, deliberately fallen in love with a girl as early as possible in the war in order that he may not only correspond with her, but think upon her continually, and forget the hideous present when he can. He is demobbed and returns to find the girl many more than four years older; through the self-immolating enthusiasms bred by the abnormal conditions she has "given bits of herself" to men home on leave—although remaining a fundamentally and hopelessly non-understanding virgin—and has fellen madly in love with his ex-valet, Braithwaite, long since risen to the rank of Brigadier General. One wonders at his agonies, or why any man falls in love with Terry, and is glad when she gets her deserts in the end. She is a good little girl, but hopelessly stupid, selfish and hard.

The most interesting of the women is Maisie Lockwood, who, losing her husband during the first year of the war and having no heart left for any man, marries two other men, home on leave, because they were desperately in love with her and it seemed a "kind of war work to let them marry her." They both "went West," and she is quaffing eagerly of the daily loving cup that she may forget the past and avoid thinking on the hopeless morrow, when Tabs enters and persuades her that "the whole trick of living is to march forward with the appearance of success, no matter how badly other people say you are defeated. I have a philosophy all my own; it's a 'round the corner' philosophy. I believe that we find everything that we've lost or longed for, if only we'll press on. Everything that we've ever lost or longed for waits for us further up the road, 'round some hidden turning. It's always further up the road and just out of sight."

This is a bit beyond Maisie, as it would be beyond any woman whose heart was broken, but she has the adaptability of her sex and is a woman of the world. She agrees to delude herself with the belief that her first husband will return—or that she will find one like him—if Tabs will help her. This he agrees to do and finds it no sacrifice to pay her daily visits. Hence complications, which, if they serve no other purpose, at least give him time to realise that, finding himself as much in love with Maisie as with Terry, he is really in love with neither and is quite heart-free when he finally meets, in the most romantic circumstances, the rather impossible Lady Dawn.

Braithwaite, while still a valet, has engaged himself to Taborley's housemaid Ann, but if war is the great leveler it is also the great inversionist. Intimate association with Lord Taborley who had always treated him more as a friend than a servant, had taught him the ways of a gentleman, and when the opportunity came it taught him, further, that he was the more able man of the two.

They entered the war in the ranks, side by side. Taborley remained in the ranks and Braithwaite rose so rapidly that he determined not only to remain a gentleman but to be true to his unsuspected talents. He breaks off his correspondence with Ann, premitting her to think him missing or dead, and during his London triumph falls in love with Terry. More complications and highly interesting ones. But he reckoned without his Ann, who has more character than any woman in the book.

Taborley recognises him immediately, but concludes to give him a sporting chance, merely appealing to his honor to tell Terry the truth. This the man concludes to do, although he goes to Sir Tobias, Terry's father, who is properly scandalised. The revelation makes little impression on the infatuated Terry. Her sense of caste rebels, but he could have had her in the end if he would have taken her. By that time, however, he is utterly disgusted with caste and the insincerities of a society only capable of accepting a man on his merits under abnormal conditions and returns to his mate—who, it may be observed in passing, uses grammar as good as his own.

Probably no better picture will be made of the chaotic social and mental conditions induced by a long war than this book of Mr. Dawson's. What is known as "values" are upset, reversed, distorted. Says Terry:

We saw you men march away; you seemed lost to us forever. Everything seemed at an end. So we did what you did—chose one man who would embody all our dreams and become especially ours. * * * There wasn't any always. * * * And then the horror stopped and we found ourselves with a man on our hands. * * * We women have been spendthrifts too; we've given away more than was wise—little bits of ourselves, not always to the one man—sometimes in the wrong direction. But which is the right direction? * * * Peace has turned the world upside down. We've walking on our heads. * * * A lot of us are unfaithful for the moment; its a symptom of our illness. * * * We're all convalescing.

Said Braithwaite bitterly to Sir Tobias:

You cheered us and jeered us into going because you were frightened. You handed us white feathers if we hestitated. You promised that if we would share our lives with you you'd go fifty-fifty with us on your financial security. There wasn't time to have deeds of agreement drawn up; we took you at your word. And what a lie it was! Why, I passed a blinded officer today in Regent Street peddling shoelaces! If you see a man in uniform today, your unspoken thought it, "For God's sake, take it off!" It tell you it's all wrong. It's that kind of ingratitude that leads to revolution. You talk about the brutality of war; it's not a patch on the brutality of peace. You treated men's lives as yours while the danger lasted, but you insist that your possessions are your own, now that it's been averted * * * you reassert your privilege to despise us. You stuff your fingers in your ears and talk about caste. * * * You're living in a totally altered world, of whose very existence you are content to be unaware.

Sir Tobias, indeed, is the only person in the story not in the least muddled by the war. He personifies caste, he made no concessions, and violently protested against Terry's interest in Braithwaite while all London was receiving the hero. He is an admirably drawn character, this "Punch-like old gentleman with the head of Shakespeare." He relieves his mind to Taborley:

They never know when to go, these New Army fellows. Good at their job, they tell me, but no polish. * * * I'm sick of it all, the invasion of classes, the women in trousers, the beggars on horseback. * * * I want the old world back—everybody labeled. * * * In 1914 we spoke of a man as belonging to our class and meant that he had our standards of conduct, our code of honor, our traditions—that he could be trusted to run true to form. Now any man's a gentleman, provided he killed enough Germans. * * * What people don't realise is that men have been wounded in protecting old chaps like myself in coal mines, and on railroads, and a thousand other places, ever since the world started, but until now we never felt it necessary to offer them a bed in our houses. * * * When I demand that a man shall have traditions, to be my friend, I ask no more than when I refuse to buy a dog without a pedigree.

Of course no English novel dealing even remotely with the war is complete without its touch of spiritualism. Tabs conceives himself to be possessed by the spirit of Lord Dawn until he has convinced the "most beautiful woman in London" (who has finally brought his wandering affections to roost) that her erring husband loved her devotedly during the horrors of war, however he may have deluded himself in times of peace. There is a bare hint, however, that Tabs was not as positive of the Dawn obsession as he would make himself believe, but that it was a jolly good excuse to run the lady to earth in her ancient castle and make an indelible impression on her. It was also a jolly good excuse for the author.

This is the barest outline of a fascinating and highly instructive story. It has enough action to satisfy the most exacting motion-picture director, and it is as naturally and truthfully told as if each of the characters had been a living acquaintance of Mr. Dawson and had made him his or her father-confessor. Not only are facts given, but motives explained. We have heard many rumors of social topsy-turviness in England, but for the first time we understand it. And, understanding, we no longer criticise. Mr. Dawson in "The Kingdom Round the Corner" has done much for his native country, besides giving it—as well as us—one of the most charming novels of the year.

Siccawei Weather Reports

22.—The depression is stopped, and decreases gradually between Kiusiu and the Loochoos. Maximum of pressure off eastern Japan, glass fairly high between Shanghai and Vladivostok. Cyclonic whirl in the depression, unsteady and light breezes with local calms, all along the coast. Weather overcat or cloudy but fairly good at most places in China.
23.—The pressure is slowly falling, with a corresponding rise of temperature. Normal S.E. monsoon. Weather cloudy and improving.

Hankow Market

The British Chamber of Commerce of Hankow write as follows in their weekly circular dated Hankow, June 15:

FINANCE AND MONEY MARKET

Since our last report the ready and forward quotations for Bar Silver in London have advanced 7/8d, the quotations on 13th inst. being 35 3/8d and 35 1/2d repectively. The ready price has since reacted 1/8d but the forward quotation remains unchanged. In sympathy with Silver the local exchange market has ruled firm and the official quotation for Sterling T. T. has advanced 1d to 3-5d, while sellers at 2d to 3d over rates have been in evidence. Very few Bills have appeared. The London-New York rate has been very erratic, and during the past week it has fallen as low as 368 3/8. There has however been a recovery since to 377 1/8, the closing quotation in New York on 15th inst. Chinese market rates Shanghai Taels 97.45, Dollars 70.65. Native interest 11 1/2 % per annum.

EXPORTS

Tael prices generally are firm although the markets for all produce are quiet. Wood Oil relapsed a little to meet the advance in exchange. Shensi Cotton is a little easier.

IMPORTS

Piece Goods.—The market is still firm but owing to the recent looting of Wuchang and the general unrest caused thereby, business has been rather dull.
